Mrs. Edmonia Collins, grandmother of Plummer Collins of Warren, celebrated her 100th birthday at her home in Linesville, Pa., yesterday.

Asked by local newspapers to what she attributed her long life, she said, Plummer tells us, "Ever since I was little, I poured all the medicine doctors gave me down the drain and planted the pills in my flowerpots."

The local medical society is going to present her with a plaque celebrating her longevity.

Frank McAnn, Library Theater manager, advises he's booked the filmed version of Hamlet, starring Richard Burton for two days late in September. The film was made during a stage performance in New York.

Also, for those interested, the Beatles' picture, "A Hard Day's Night," will appear here about the same time.

Henry Powell, principal of Beaty Junior High School, has returned from a meeting of 63 public school officials at the University of Connecticut, where junior high school education was discussed.

The officials concentrated on such problems as preparation for college, potential dropouts, foreign language instruction, changes in grade organization, and cultural enrichment.

Heron Attacks Delay in Govt. Land Payment

Raps Dam In Speech

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y. — George Heron, president of the Seneca Indian Nation, attacked the federal government in a speech here last night for its failure to abide by treaty obligations and to reimburse the Senecas for their land.

ADDRESSING an audience of 5,000 assembled in the amphitheater of Chautauqua Institution, Heron criticized the controversial Kinzua Dam project, which will flood part of the Seneca reservation. Calling the project "a $100 million blunder and a violation of the sacred Treaty of 1794," Heron accused the government in Washington of ignoring feasible alternatives proposed by impartial studies.

He renewed his contention that the Conewango Reservoir Plan would have allowed for the storage of more water than the present operation. An impartial comparison of the two plans was never made, Heron said. Since the only major experts supporting the project are the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, he named some of the critics of the Kinzua Dam, which include the present chairman of the TVA.

BECAUSE it is too late to stop the building of the dam, the Senecas have asked the federal government to reimburse them for their lands. Heron praised the Subcommittee on Indian Affairs in the House of Representatives bill that it passed recently. "This subcommittee represents a good cross-section of legislators from every area in

Goldwater May Ask Johnson For Campaign Race 'Truce'

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater is considering a call to President Johnson—the man he hopes to oust from the White House—for a campaign pact aimed at keeping civil rights tensions "a completely quiet question."

The Republican presidential nominee said he doesn't want the campaign ahead to inflame "this tension that exists," and added one way of easing it would be stricter enforcement of laws guaranteeing the right to vote.

At the White House, press secretary George Reedy said Johnson "would not do anything to incite or inflame tensions" during the presidential campaign. He said Johnson would give serious consideration to a meeting with Goldwater if the Republican nominee formally proposes one.

Goldwater said he would "ponder" making the formal call.

The Arizona senator talked about civil rights at a surprise news conference in Chicago Monday as he headed for a Washington homecoming soured by the jeers of self-styled American Nazis.

Their chants of "We Want Rockwell" — George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the American Nazi party — interrupted Goldwater's appearance on the rostrum at an outdoor rally at Washington National Airport. One of the group said they were protesting what he called Goldwater's "liberal record."

The senator's parting shot: "They can have Rockwell or anybody else they want. I'll take my chances with the majority of Americans who are Americans."

At a news conference in a Chicago airport lounge, Goldwater said he wants to keep the explosive side of the civil rights question out of the presidential campaign.

"I don't want to see any words of mine or anyone connected with me touch anything off," he said. "I'm not going to inject this issue and I don't think he (Johnson) is."

"Let's give this law a chance to work," Goldwater said of the new civil rights measure he opposed in the Senate.

A reporter asked Goldwater about the possibility of an agreement between the Republican and Democratic contenders for the presidency to avert campaign measures that would increase tension.

"I think that's a very good idea and that's gone through my mind," Goldwater said. "I would welcome a chance to sit down with the President and discuss this particular issue that might come up."

The senator criticized the way civil rights laws are being enforced now.

"We have laws on the books which if adequately enforced, a solution to the civil rights problem would be forthcoming," he said. "The right to vote is guaranteed. The attorney general has not enforced that law, so he has acted in moderation."

"So they have their rights," Goldwater added. "What they need is better enforcement of the law."

Asks Racial 'Truce'

Harlem Appears 'Simmering Down'

By RICHARD F. WHALEN

NEW YORK (AP)—Turbulent Harlem simmered down today from two nights of racial rioting and a third of continued disturbances.

Police pistol fire still shattered the air Monday night. Hundreds of steel-helmeted police patrolled the area. Major streets were again closed to traffic.

Chanting Negro demonstrators marched through the streets. Roving gangs harassed police. Looters broke store windows. A melee between police and bar patrons wrecked a tavern.

Two dozen persons, including three policemen were injured. There were a score or more arrests.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner's office reported after he was given a report on the situation by telephone that he was returning today from a European vacation.

Police officials said Harlem was markedly quieter Monday night. There were no widespread disturbances.

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said his office had been in touch by telephone with President Johnson's aides. He said "nothing conclusive" came of the talks.

CORE set up a makeshift first aid station at its office and kept track of outbreaks of violence by walkie-talkie radio.

Acting Mayor Paul Screevane said a grand jury would consider today the case of the white detective lieutenant who fatally shot a 15-year-old Negro boy. Demonstrations after the slaying touched off the first of the riots, in which one man was killed and more than 100 injured.

The detective said he shot the boy in self-defense.

Screevane said that more Negro policemen would be sent into Harlem. The police department says it has no racial breakdown of its members and assigns men without regard to race.

Police fired warning shots in the air Monday night to disperse several crowds when they appeared to get unruly.

The largest demonstration was a relatively peaceful march by about 1,000 persons across several blocks along 125th Street. At Second Avenue police fired into the air and broke it up.

Later, a crowd of about 250 formed in front of the CORE office. They cheered when Farmer said more Negro policemen would be sent to Harlem.

But when he urged them to go home, they shouted, "No, no. When they (white police) go home, we go home."

They marched in circles in the street, chanting "We want justice," and then moved to a residential area. When shouts of "Get some guns" started, police moved in, fired shots in the air and the crowd dispersed.

A melee erupted at a bar early today when two patrolmen chased two men who had thrown rocks into a supermarket. The bar door was locked and the patrolmen broke it

T-M Answering Service Begun

Times-Mirror advertisers and subscribers can now enjoy 24-hour service thanks to an automatic answering device added to the paper's telephone switchboard.

By dialing 723-1400 after hours, patrons may leave want ad orders, ask for home delivery service and even leave small news items. They also may leave telephone numbers for callbacks during regular business hours.

Times-Mirror officials pointed out, however, that the Sports Department may be reached by dialing 723-1402 or 723-1403, during evening hours to report Hot Stove League results and other sports events. Sports callers have been asked NOT to use the recording device.

The machine, a Code-a-Phone, automatically answers the telephone and plays a recorded message. Callers then have 60 seconds in which to record their message. Callers are asked to speak slowly and distinctly so that their calls may be accurately recorded.

Times-Mirror business office is normally open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. The Code-a-Phone will handle calls during the evening hours and on weekends, when the office normally is closed.

IN AN EFFORT to add still more to the fund, the Warren Archery Club is sponsoring a benefit archery shoot this Wednesday on the club course on Morrison Run. Chuck Anderson, vice-president of the club, announced that all proceeds will be turned over to the Mikan Fund, in care of The Times-Mirror.

All Warrenites, whether archers or spectators, may participate in the affair, which begins at 6 p.m. Hot dogs and other refreshments will be served to archers, their families, and spectators. Archers will pay $2 to compete, while couples will shoot for $3.

County To Push For Collection Of Unpaid Fines

Warren County officials plan a concerted effort to collect thousands of dollars worth of delinquent fines and costs being carried on the books at this time.

THE FACT that approximately $13,470 was owed to Warren County in delinquent fines and costs resulting from court cases since 1958 was discussed at a special session yesterday afternoon.

The county commissioners, meeting with District Attorney Samuel F. Bonavita, Sheriff Donnell E. Allen Jr., Prothonotary Warren G. Lowe and the county auditors, agreed to accelerate their program to collect the fines and costs imposed.

BONAVITA told The Times-Mirror today that the collection procedure had been approved some time ago after he had consulted with County Solicitor David Swanson on the matter. The district attorney stated that the responsibility for collection of fines and costs rests with the county.

Bonavita explained that the clerk of courts has been instructed to notify by letter, all persons in arrears and instruct them to pay their debts to the county within a given period or a bench warrant for their arrest will be issued.

"IF AFTER 10 or 15 days," Bonavita said, "there has been no response, the prothonotary will then supply me with the names, addresses and amount owed, and I will then petition the court for a bench warrant." The final analysis is up to the judge, Bonavita stated. Once the bench warrant is issued, the sheriff will be instructed to make the necessary arrest.

The district attorney pointed out that when he first assumed his present post, he and the clerk of courts at that time, were successful in returning to the county all collectable monies, some of which had been owing for 20 years prior.

BONAVITA explained that in some instances fines and costs were not collectable. Some per-

Tidioute Theater Opens After Being Refurbished

TIDIOUTE—The Tidioute Theatre reopened last Friday night after being closed for several months. Recently the owners, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Christy, under the management of their son, Howard Christy, have made a number of improvements both inside and outside of the theatre.

HOWARD CHRISTY stated that most of the seats have been reupholstered in foam rubber and tapestry; the powder room repainted, and three large exhaust fans are in operation. The front of the building also was repainted.

Christy gave much praise to a number of local boys who are regular patrons, for their assistance in the redecorating. In an effort to overcome past misdeeds of boys and girls who had caused both damage and disturbances, and complaints by adult patrons, Christy, in his welcome on Friday night, announced the standards and rules under which the theatre will be managed in the future.

First of all, he said, he would show only the latest and best films available, with such hits as "Who's Been Sleeping in My Bed," featuring Dean Martin, Carol Burnett and Elizabeth Montgomery this weekend, and "Who's Minding The Store?" next weekend with Jerry Lewis as the lead along with Jill St. John and Ray Walston.

Christy commented that it was necessary to set up strict rules for behavior while in the theatre. At the first sign of damage to the new seats, he will offer a reward of $10 for the apprehension of the culprit, then prosecute.

"Lipstick writing on the walls of the refurbished powder room will draw an extra 10 cent ticket charge to all girl patrons," and he continued, "I am sure that if I had taken some of the mothers in town in to see the type of wall writing done by our young girls in the past, they would have been shocked."

He told his patrons that it is perfectly natural to laugh and applaud when the movie warrants it, but rowdiness, talking during the showing of the movie or running through the aisles or other roughhousing, will mean the eviction of those causing the disturbance. He also commented on the sloppy dress of many of the youths and made a plea to make the movies a dress-up occasion as it has been in the past.

"My parents and I try to run a theatre for adults as well as the youngsters of the community, and it is deplorable when guests from out of town say they wanted to get candy from the machine but were afraid to do so because several boys were near it and they didn't want a switch blade in their backs," Christy said.

He is planning several innovations for his patrons such as musical chairs where an award is given to the one whose seat number is called each night. Also he hopes for the co-operation of local merchants in "give aways."

Residents Petition Council To Act on Sewer Overflow

TITUSVILLE—Forty-five residents petitioned city council in a stormy session last night to take action to alleviate storm and sanitary sewer overflow which has been backing up into the basements of their homes.

The residents, all of the 300 and 400 blocks of E. Central Ave. and E. Main St., stated that Nardel Construction Co. last year plugged up about 30 feet of the Central Ave. sewer which had been discharging into Church Run. This was done while Nardel was laying lines for the city's water project, they claim.

This, they declared, compounded trouble which had been evident for a number of years. Some residents said that during the heavy rains last week there was more than four feet of water in some of the cellars in the neighborhood.

Commissioners Formally Okay Report by BOR

The Warren County commissioners yesterday endorsed the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation report, outlining recommendations for recreation development in the Kinzua dam and reservoir area, which will be considered by the Recreation Advisory Council July 29.

Of prime importance among the recommendations was that the U. S. Forest Service be placed in charge of administration of this development.

Commissioner D. H. Lay said he favored this recommendation because the Forest Service could buy land for expansion of recreation facilities and build the necessary access roads.

The report has previously received the endorsement of the county planning commission and other interested groups, including private interest organizations and the Seneca Nation of Indians. The BOR report also recommended that the two latter be given consideration in planning for recreation development in the area.

Hollywood Reporting

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next week Rose Marie plays a real life Pagliacci.

A wise-cracking comedienne, she plays the single girl who is always looking for a man on "The Dick Van Dyke Show."

The show took a summer vacation and resumes filming July 30.

During that vacation, Rose Marie lost her husband of 18 years. He died suddenly from a blood ailment.

Her husband, trumpeter Bobby Guy, was the comics' favorite musician. A hearty, sincere laughter, he was always in the band when Jerry Lewis, Danny Kaye, George Gobel or any of the other big name comics appeared.

He also was a good trumpeter—once featured with the Kay Kyser band in the Thirties.

Rose Marie, a former stage and movie child star, has been in show business all her life but never wound up with the adult problems of most child performers.

In Burma, rice cakes are called mon-le-bway, meaning "whirlwind cake." The crisp thin sheets are feather-light and filled with air bubbles.

"Somehow, I never felt as if I were different than other kids," she says. "I thank my mother for that. Maybe that's why Bobby and I had such a happy marriage."

"We had 18 wonderful years together — and a wonderful daughter who is the image of her father. And she is so much like him in many ways, it is the one solace I have."

"That and all the wonderful letters from people I never even knew existed. Lots of them from friends of Bobby—friends I never knew he had."

Bobby loved all comics. But his favorite was his wife.

Gobel once quipped: "Bobby is such a fan of Rose Marie that he's the only husband in town who asks his wife for an autograph at breakfast."

Asked how she felt about resuming her comedy career, Rose Marie did not go into the spiel about "the show must go on."

"I dread it," she said sadly.

Martin Luther King Set For Mississippi Visit

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King comes to this racially troubled state today to aid the newly formed Mississippi Freedom Democratic party in its drive to unseat the all-white regular Democratic delegation to next month's national convention.

Civil rights leaders said Dr. King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership conference, would spend at least five days in the state, speaking at mass rallies in Jackson, Greenwood, Meridian and Vicksburg. Another Negro leader, James Farmer, the Texas-born national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, is scheduled to arrive in Mississippi later this week to boost the Freedom Democratic party movement.

Even before the formal announcement organizing the Freedom Democrats Monday the group had received assurances from regular Democratic delegations in New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Oregon, California and Colorado of support on the floor of the Democratic National Convention which begins Aug. 24 at Atlantic City, N.J.

Victoria Gray, a Hattiesburg Negro housewife, said the party was formed because Mississippi Negroes haven't been able to vote in sufficient numbers to force a change in the regular Democratic party structure.

Mrs. Gray, an unsuccessful candidate against Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., in the recent Democratic primary, was named as the Freedom Democrats' national committeewoman.

The national committeeman is the Rev. Edwin King, a white Methodist minister who is chaplain at predominantly Negro Tougaloo College near Jackson. The Freedom Democrats plan precinct meetings this week, followed by county conventions and a state convention here Aug. 6.

Mrs. Gray said a campaign would be launched to get 100,000 Negroes to sign a "freedom registration roll" to dramatize to the national convention the number of Negroes disfranchised in the state.

Mississippi, according to unofficial estimates has about 26,000 registered Negro voters out of 450,000 of voting age.

The regular Democrats hold their state convention here July 28 to name their national delegates and decide on a course in the presidential election.

Unpledged elector forces of former Gov. Ross Barnett are expected to hold the upper hand at the state convention. Barnett had been backing the candidacy of Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who withdrew from the presidential race Sunday.

As a result of a Times-Mirror feature story on Allegheny Springs, a former thriving health resort in Brokenstraw Twp., which appeared July 1, others in Warren County have contributed additional information.

ERNEST C. MILLER, a well known local historian, wrote to say that several years ago, he met and had a lengthy conversation with the movie star, the late Adolph Menjou. Miller said they met at the William Penn Hotel (now the Statler) in Pittsburgh.

According to Miller, when Menjou learned that he came from Warren, he asked if he knew where Allegheny Springs was located. Miller was surprised that Menjou knew of the place, but was advised by the actor that he had spent several summers there on vacation.

MILLER STATED that he does not know the years that Menjou was at Allegheny Springs but suggested that some Times-Mirror readers might remember.

Mrs. Arthur Hamblin of 3100 Pennsylvania Ave., the former Kathryn Thompson of Irvine, called to say that it had always been her impression that it was her father, Gilbert Thompson who built the Allegheny Springs hotel. She also said that Thompson built other homes and establishments in the vicinity of Irvine and also in Warren itself.

MRS. HAMBLIN'S father kept a livery stable in Irvine and she told The Times-Mirror that 23 horses were kept busy during the season at Allegheny Springs to transport guests at the health resort.

The Irvine resident also stated that the hotel was located just this side of the spring house and that the porch of the 3-story building was almost level with the road. She also recalled a red livery barn between Sulphur Springs and York Hill road.

MRS. HAMBLIN vividly recalls other places of interest in the town of Irvine and has quite a collection of pictures to verify her recollections. One, taken about 1908 or earlier, shows Cooney's Store in Irvine, a typical mercantile outlet with much of its goods on display outside. Mrs. Hamblin said the structure was known as the Shannon Place.

Other pictures showed the old Irvine school in about 1898 or 1899. Built on property now occupied by National Forge, the old school finally burned. Gilbert Thompson's livery stable was situated to the rear of the school.

IN DISPLAYING another photograph of the former Irvine Methodist Church, Mrs. Hamblin noted that it was taken when a group left the church to travel by horse and wagon for a picnic on what is now the River Road property of Dr. David K. Rice. "That was considered a long trip in those days," she said.

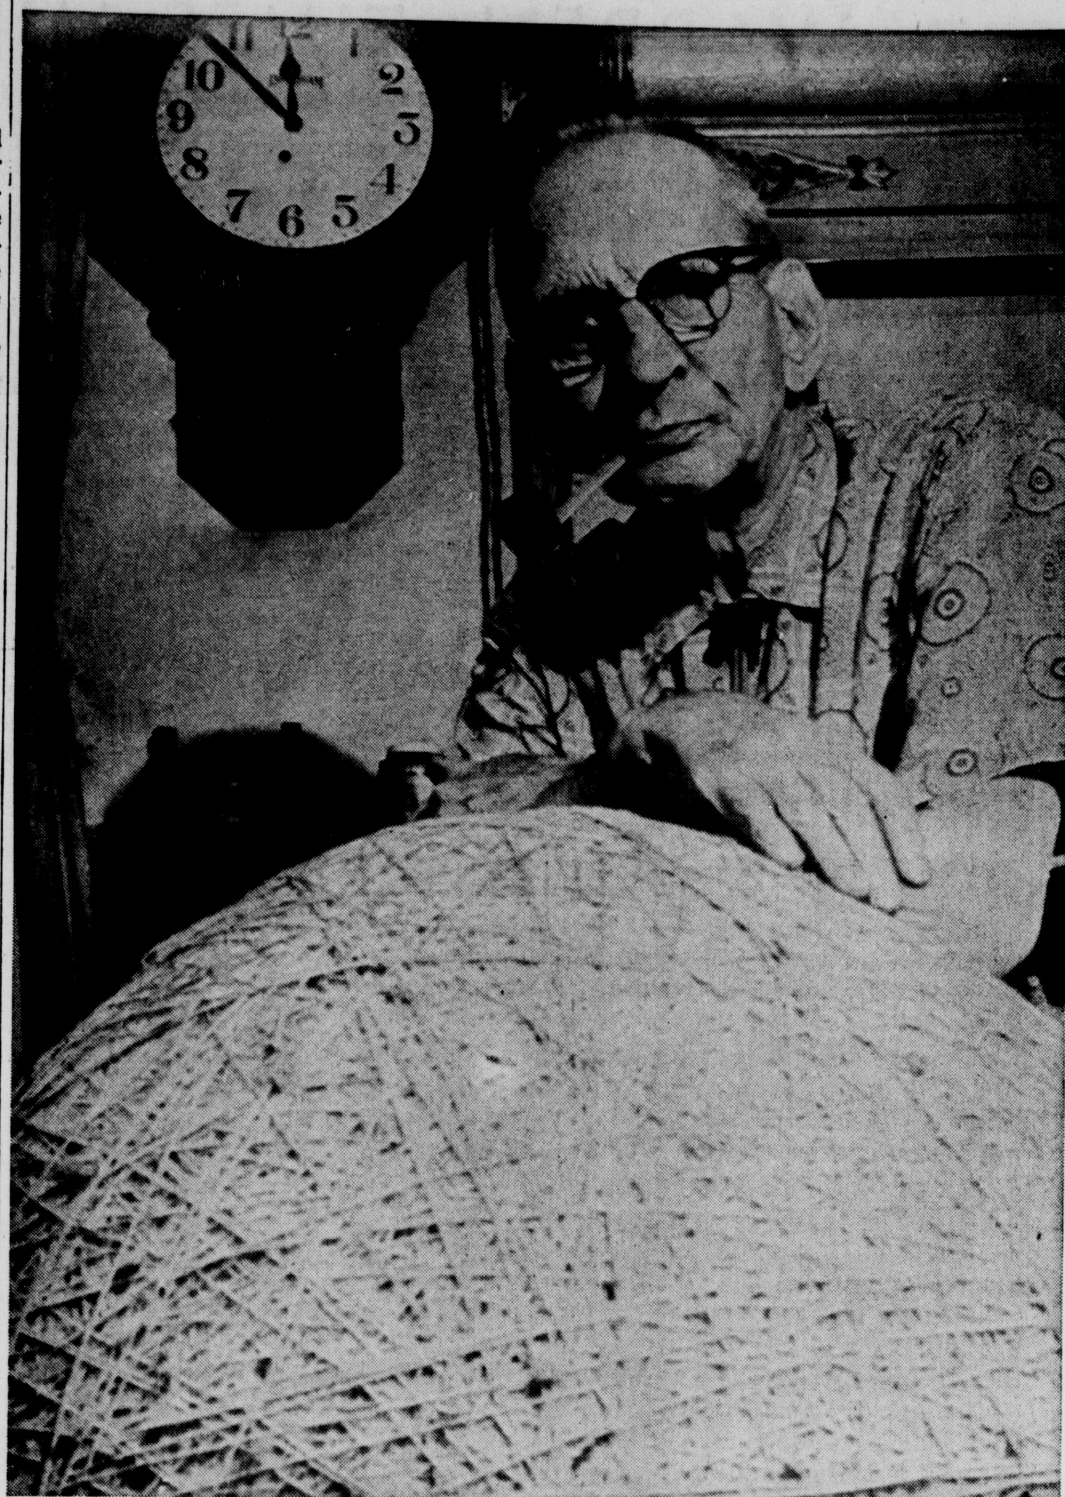

Mrs. Hamblin's grandfather, Charles Thompson, was killed at the Civil War Battle of Fredericksburg, she stated and she now has two grandsons at the annual national Boy Scout jamboree at Valley Forge.

THE HAMBLIN home itself is 100 years old and is almost completely hidden from busy Route 6 by pine trees which the couple has raised themselves. They also raised five daughters, all of whom are married and reside in Warren County. The Hamblins boast 24 members in their family.

Arthur Hamblin is a patient at South Mountain Hospital and is undergoing treatment for a lung ailment sustained after several bouts with pneumonia. He is expected to return to their modest home in a few months. In the meantime, Mrs. Hamblin keeps busy maintaining a garden and keeping track of her countless mementoes of the past.

AMONG THE treasurers at the Hamblin home, is a canvas case packed full of postcards, some as old as 50 years; a 100-year-old copper teakettle and a perfectly matched pair of hand-made wooden candlesticks.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamblin celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary and she is an enthusiastic member of the Golden Age Society.

ALL BALLED UP — C. B. Crowley is partly hidden by a giant ball of string which he says took him "20 years and a couple of thousand knots" to put together. The ball weighs 142 pounds, is 27 inches thick and measures 7 feet-3 inches around. Crowley's barbershop partner in Tulsa, Okla., computing the weight of a piece of string, says the ball would stretch 61 miles, 176 yards if unrolled. Nobody volunteered to try.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my wife. She has been going from one doctor to the next for almost 30 years. When he tells her there is nothing wrong with her, she finds another doctor. The doctor and drug bills every month are tremendous. I wouldn't mind if she were really sick, but she isn't. She carries a pocketbook full of pills in case she has some sort of "attack," which she has never had. She is up on all the known diseases, and is always looking for new ones. What is your advice? I'm sick of telling her that she isn't sick.

HER HUSBAND

DEAR HUBAND: People who are pre-occupied with diseases and imaginary illnesses are indeed "sick." Tell her physician about your wife's history. Perhaps HE can convince her that she needs help above her eyebrows.

DEAR ABBY: To celebrate our fifth wedding anniversary, my husband and I would like to have a big wedding with all the trimmings. I want to send out invitations, have a white gown and veil, and everything, just like it was the first wedding. The reason for this is because we eloped and realize that we missed something. Has anyone ever done this before?

MY DREAM

DEAR MY: I doubt it. White weddings with all the trimmings are for the first plunge only. Have an anniversary party, but skip the gown and veil.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and I like this boy. I don't want to find another boy because, well, you see, he's special! My problem is that he likes me only as a friend and that's not good enough. He likes a girl who is very sexy, makes average grades and has dirty hair. She is sort of cute, but so am I. I am clean and make good grades and my friends say I have a good personality. Who do you think deserves him, and how can I get him?

ONLY A FRIEND

DEAR ONLY: It doesn't matter who I think "deserves" him. The other girl has him. Your chances for making a boy, who likes you "only as a friend," like you in any other way are very small indeed. Settle for friendship, honey. And don't knock the competition, or you won't even have his friendship.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a friend who, when you call her up and ask if she is going to be home that evening, says she is, but she plans to watch her favorite TV program, so unless you want to watch it, too, you had better stay home?

HAD IT HAPPEN

DEAR HAD: I'd prefer her company to the person who tells me I'm welcome, then spurns me for the BOOB TUBE.

Guardsmen To Fire 'Honest John' Missile in Wednesday Session

CAMP PICKETT, Va. (AP)—Artillery units of the Pennsylvania 28th Infantry Division will fire a 4,000-pound "Honest John" rocket Wednesday highlighting their final week of summer training.

The missile, one of two weapons giving the Keystone National Guard division nuclear capability, will be fired from a special launch mounted on a truck. Several pounds of explosives will be used in place of a nuclear warhead.

The 28th was the first National Guard division to fire such a weapon back in 1961. All previous launchings have been successful.

▲ surface-to-surface missile.

The "Honest John" will be pre-set to explode in the air some 200 feet from the ground, following an eight-mile course from launch to target.

Plans already are being carried out to clear the area for the simulated attack.

Meanwhile, back at Camp A. P. Hill, Va., where the bulk of the guardsmen are encamped, division headquarters company, of Harrisburg, continues to lead the field in ratings.

The unit has won 14 straight superiors since last Thursday. A "superior" is the highest rating given by regular army evaluators who are checking every phase of the division's training.

The company, commanded by Capt. G. Donald Diehl of Mechanicsburg, has achieved 18 superiors and 24 excellent in 42 inspections since training began July 11. The guardsmen will return home next weekend.

Other units scoring high in the evaluators' figures released Monday were: the 28th Military Police Company, Lebanon, commanded by Capt. Frederick S. Tice, Lebanon; the 103rd Medical Battalion, Lancaster, commanded by Lt. Col. David Reiber, Philadelphia; and the 728th Maintenance Battalion of Lock Haven, commanded by Lt. Col. William L. Greiner Jr., Mackeyville.

The overall inspection results for the entire division thus far in the encampment are: 748 superiors, and 2,485 excellent, 3,579 inspections.

'Madwoman of Chailiot' Slated For Production at Chautauqua

CHAUTAUQUA — The third offering of the Chautauqua Repertory Theatre, opening this Thursday evening in Norton Hall, will be Jean Giraudoux' comedy, "The Madwoman of Chailiot" which has been called his most popular work.

THE PLAY is a modern fairy tale set in the boulevard cafes and cellars of Paris. Its theme is simple, yet it contains a question which is timeless: Can the good people of the world destroy the bad and still retain their goodness? To answer this intriguing question, Giraudoux has drawn a gallery of characters from the Parisian scene, headed by one of the most colorful people ever created for the stage, the magnificent Countess Aurelia, the Madwoman of Chailiot.

Director Kirk Willis has cast Edith Owen as the Countess and she is supported by Dorothy Paxton, Myrna Kaye and June Cartwright as confrere madwomen. William Paterson, J. Vernon Oaks, Orin Kenney, Robert Snook and Robert Allman head a large cast.

The car ran off the road north of Courtland in North Central of Kansas.

With electronic telephone central offices, a subscriber will be able to push code numbers that tell his telephone where he will be for an evening or weekend, and the phone will transfer the calls.

Holdup Man, Suicide, Is Identified

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Authorities have identified an alleged holdup man who they said shot himself to death when trapped by police as Clarence A. Gifford, 43, of Waynesburg, Pa.

Gifford shot himself at the Wynnefield home of David and Sylvia Gordon Sunday, police

Author Urges Church Become 'Extroverted'

READING, Pa. (AP)—A Philadelphia author has told the fifth quadrennial general convention of the Evangelical United Brethren Church that "instead of being introverted, the church must become extroverted."

Robert Rains, author of "New Life in the Church," delivered a principal address to the convention Monday.

He said: "We must become concerned with the world in which we exist. Total rebirth can come to the church only as all of us become a part of the total witness of the church to God's purpose."

South Arabia is a stark, desolate land once trod by camel caravans bearing silks and spices from India and China.

said, when officers entered the house in response to a phone call. The Gordons' daughter, Jacquelyn, 19, had phoned police from her locked bedroom that a robbery was in progress.

Gifford was arrested in 1942 for intoxication at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and on a firearms charge in Washington, Pa., March 24, 1961.

He was charged with robbery in Washington, Pa., and sentenced to serve 8 to 18 years in the state prison at Pittsburgh.

According to the Washington County district attorney's office, Gifford in 1962 filed a writ of habeas corpus on grounds he had been tried and sentenced without benefit of a lawyer. The writ was denied. On June 13, 1963, he appealed to the State Superior Court and the case was remanded to the Washington County Court where Judge Roy I. Collins granted him a new trial.

He then was released from prison Nov. 7. Sometime between then and the new trial date, he pleaded guilty and was placed on 23 months probation.

Meanwhile, two women arrested as alleged accomplices in the attempted robbery were held without bail for court Monday on charges of burglary, larceny, receiving stolen goods, conspiracy, making threats to kill and carrying concealed weapons. They were identified as Mrs. Jane McDevitt, 36, and Jane Andrews.

This and That, Etc. . . .

IT'S DESK cleaning time again, which means a lot of odd items will pass through here on the way to the file-and-forget department. Such as . . .

This 400th anniversary of the birth of Shakespeare has brought to light many interesting facts, among them this: That if Shakespeare's father, John, hadn't moved to Stratford before Bill was born, we'd have the Bard of Snitterfield instead of the Bard of Avon. . . . Somewhat Snitterfield doesn't have quite the same ring. . . .

A national woman's magazine recently published a collection of little-known facts about presidential candidates, all taken from their own campaign literature, official profiles, etc. Here's what is reported about Barry Goldwater:

He claims 18 hobbies, including growing cactus (cacti?) under heat lamps . . . making his own bullets (for the Minutemen?) . . . and jitter-bugging (the older generation will know what that is) . . . He sleeps four hours a night . . . eats no breakfast . . . never touches coffee or tea . . . once shaved with peanut butter (necessity is the mother of invention?) . . . reads six books at once and Popular Mechanics as well . . . his favorite decor is "Western modern" . . . he invented Antsy-Pantsy, men's undershorts with red ants on them (ye gods!) . . . wears blue satin shorts made from ribbons from his daughter's wedding . . . wears a vest embroidered with the history of his married life (hair shirt?) . . . likes Dixieland music, especially "My Cutie on the 2:22" . . . likes western realistic painting by men like Weighorrt, Grew, Bonnell, William Schimmel . . . has a flag-pole at his ranch with a photoelectric device that raises and lowers the flag when the sun's rays strike it . . . has an emperor-size bed equipped with gadgets that reproduce the sound of waves, wind and waterfalls (how else can you live in Arizona?) . . . founded a fake Indian tribe whose ceremonial dances he performs . . . and he likes TV westerns and watches six or seven a week. . .

The ever-rising cost of hospital care is a threat that shows no signs of easing. Anyone faced with prolonged hospitalization can see life's earnings gone in virtually no time.

It's a heartening approach, then, to see the commonwealth become concerned to the point where the Governor's Hospital Study Commission is going to tackle the problem.

Whether it can do anything and how much it can accomplish only time can tell. That time is late can be sensed from what has happened to two neighboring states—New York and New Jersey. There the cost of hospitalization plans has increased a third. Secretary of Public Welfare Arlin M. Adams, who heads the Commission, is hopeful that such a costly increase can be averted here.

When Pennsylvania instituted its "purchase-of-care" program last March, hospitals were reimbursed for the care of the needy under 65 in a more realistic way. Under this plan, a hospital can receive as much as $25 a day, a decided improvement over the former $10. It was reported at the time that the plan conceivably could lighten the load of paying

Mrs. Elmer Munksgard, Crescent St., had word this morning from her husband, who is a specialist teacher in the Richmond, Va., naval diesel school, he has been discharged after nearly seven weeks treatment in a Quantico, Va., naval hospital and will arrive home Monday for a week's leave.

Mrs. Mildred Carter, display manager at Metzger-Wright's has been informed she has been awarded a $100 War Bond as one of the winners in the recent S. H. Camp and Co. sponsored window display contest held during National Posture week. Each display manager was free to use his own theme as long as it was patriotic or inspired by a medical or health educational group. Mrs. Carter chose for her window the giving of Blood Plasma to a wounded soldier in a hospital. Mrs. Carter is to be congratulated as this was a national contest for all window displayers in cities under 100,000 population.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Frederick, Clarendon, have been Mrs. Jennie Thompson, Fairmont, W. Va.; Mrs. Emma DeBerry, Long Beach, Calif.; Mrs. Bess Miller and Mrs. Edna Siler, Oil City. Their visit was a very pleasant event for Mrs. Frederick, as it is 13 years since the five sisters have all been together.

The WSCS of the Sugar Grove Methodist church enjoyed its annual picnic meeting at Pike's Rocks with 18 attending. Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Richard Manross and Mrs. Delmar Mickelson. A brief business meeting was held and Mrs. Wesley Barlow was named chairman from the Methodist church for the annual union meeting to be held in August. The program was presented by Flossie Broughton.

Mr. and Mrs. John California, recently married, have arrived home following a wedding trip through the New England States and visits to Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont, and New York.

The analysis of this we leave to our friends, the head-shrinkers . . . Fascinating!

ANYONE WHO scoffs at Napoleon's adage that "an army moves on its stomach," is asked to consider these facts and figures compiled during the Pennsylvania National Guard's visit to Camp A. P. Hill, Va.:

According to Capt. J. L. Stahl, ration breakdown officer (we knew they had an officer in charge of that!) of the 228th Supply and Transportation Battalion, 28th Infantry, our lads at camp during their two weeks will consume 10,000 quarts of milk . . . 1,800 dozen eggs . . . 1,500 pounds of butter . . . 3,500 cups of ice cream . . . 2,000 loaves of bread . . . That, sir, is a mouthful.

There's some irony in the guard being at Camp A. P. Hill. Hill was a lieutenant general of Lee's Army of Northern Virginia—one of his best—whose division led the invasion of Pennsylvania in the Gettysburg campaign of 1863. Are we getting even?

We note with interest the appointment of Jackie Robinson to head the national Republicans for Johnson Committee. . . . Looks like the GOP will have more defections than East Germany before the Wall was built.

Incidental information: The name of the Ku Klux Klan comes from an unusual source. It's said to represent the sound of rifle being cocked in the darkness. . .

Our nomination for the best cartoon of the GOP convention was the one that appeared here last week. . . . John Fischetti's drawing in which Eisenhower is shown tapping an embattled Bill Scranton on the shoulder amid the ruins of a stronghold and commenting that "That flag up there reminds me of the ball I chipped out of the rough so far from the pin. . ." The man's a genius.

The integrationists promised a "long, hot summer of discontent. . ." looks to us like a lot of people are facing a long, windy fall of oratory, it being a Presidential year and all. . .

The rest of this stuff can go in the circular file. . .

patients who for years have helped to finance the hospital stays of those able to pay only a part, perhaps none at all.

Whatever "benefits" will accrue along this line will be dependent, to a large degree, on how successful hospitals are in controlling costs. That will be the concern of the Governor's Commission as it attempts to show that climbing costs can be curbed, with the result that hospitalization groups will be called upon to hold the line.

But can the Commission accomplish what it is about to set out to do? Or will it come to the conclusion that rising costs are beyond the control of hospital authorities who, like other groups, are at the mercy of the times?

The following facts taken from a report of the American Hospital Association are enlightening: In the past 10 years the average cost for each day's stay in the hospital has more than tripled, while in the same period, non-labor costs have increased more than 200 per cent. Fringe benefits paid employees but not reported as part of wage costs have also increased. So has the cost of equipment and supplies. The trend all along this line can be summed up in a single word—Up!

And the end is not in sight, for, as one hospital administrator put it, costs are rising at the rate of 5 per cent a year, and despite the fact hospitals frequently perform miracles, they have not yet devised a way to pull dollars out of the air.

The Governor's Hospital Study Commission has a big job to do. It is one that will demand careful and expert attention, all down the line. Its findings could affect the pocketbooks of every resident of the state.

A remark made by President Johnson on the occasion of signing the mass transit bill points to one of the chief justifications for such federal aid. Noting that 7 out of 10 Americans now live in urban areas, the President said that most of the breadwinners go to work daily on streets "originally laid out for the horses which pulled our grandfathers' carriages."

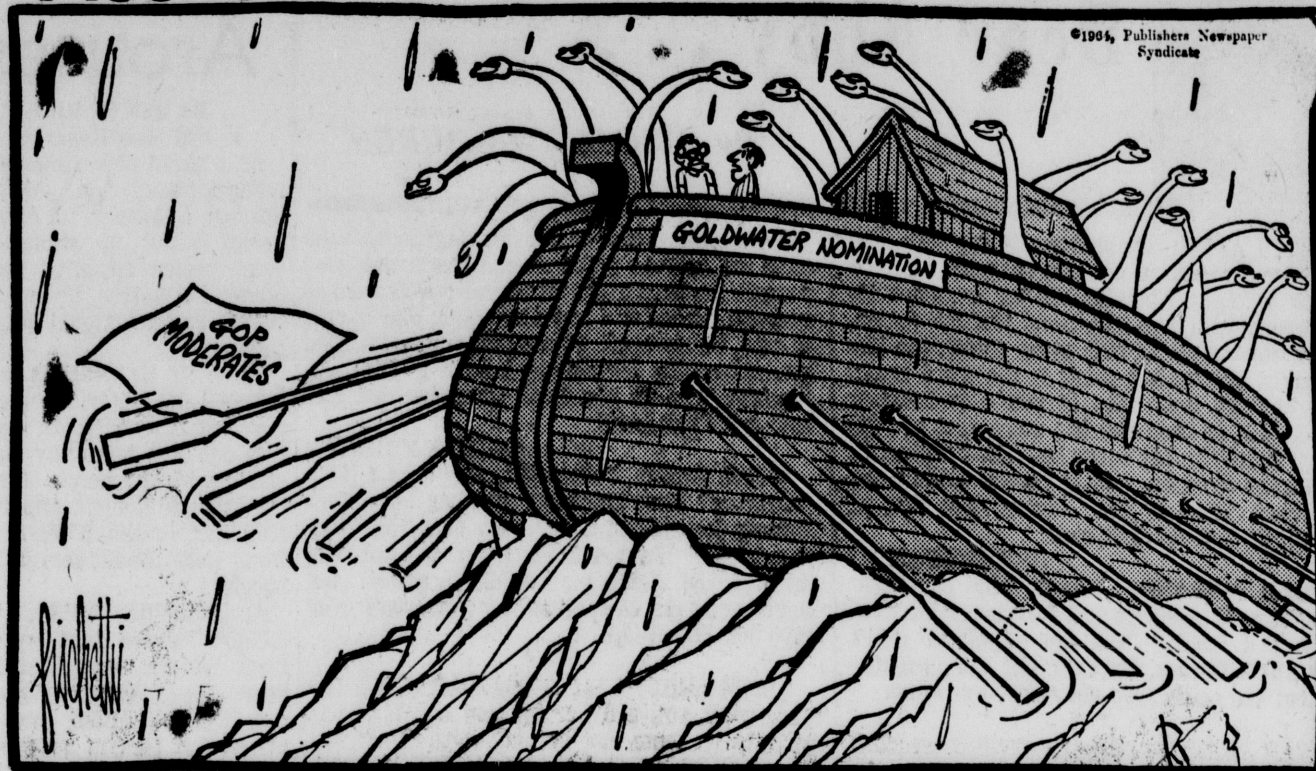

The obvious point is that such streets, though expanded, are not geared to handle traffic many times greater and many times faster than in grandfather's day. It also is true, though not quite so obvious, that if our cities are not to be bogged down in their traffic problems they need massive federal help.

This is not quite such a revolutionary concept as some opponents of the bill seemed to think. Enormous sums of federally-collected tax money have been poured into public highway systems. Highway aid is a sound precedent for a program of matching federal aid to municipalities to help them improve public transportation facilities in a variety of ways.

The fact is that the 375 million dollars provided for in the mass transit bill will be only a starter. The problems of moving millions of people efficiently in urban areas are far too big and complex to be solved in a hurry, or with modest expenditures. We might as well face the fact that the alternative to a choking up of public transport is broad, imaginative undertakings which will cost billions within the next decade. Yet the cost, though great, will be well justified. The bill just signed into law has set us on the right track.

"I NEVER HEARD SUCH BELLOWING ABOUT A LITTLE THING LIKE NO BOTTOM IN A BOAT"

Drew Pearson: Washington Merry-Go-Round

Economic Reply by LBJ

Dr. Walter Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, has placed a significant memo on his desk which may be the indirect answer to Sen. Barry Goldwater.

It presents some important economic accomplishments since Lyndon B. Johnson entered the White House.

Some of these figures have already come out from the Commerce Department and other government agencies, but added together they present a significant economic picture.

Significant is the report that the average income of a family of four went up almost $370 during the eight months of the Johnson Administration after taxes. This is an unprecedented increase.

The White House is not going to make any comparisons, but this figure could be an answer to white workers in the big cities who have announced they will vote for Goldwater because of Negro competition for their jobs.

Another figure on the President's desk shows that stock values have increased in value by $100 billions during the eight months since November.

Personal income is up $20 billions, while corporation profits are up for an increase of 3½ billion in the last eight months.

Here is the complete economic score sheet prepared by the Council of Economic Advisers for the President:

Ten key economic gains since the President took office:

1. Gross National Product—up nearly $20 billion (3.3 per cent).

2. Industrial Production—up 4.5 per cent.

3. Employment—up 1.2 million (non-farm jobs).

4. Unemployment Rate—down from 5.9 per cent to 5.3 per cent.

5. Average Weekly Earnings (in Manufacturing)—up $2.63 (2.5 per cent).

6. Personal Income—up $15.5 billion (3.3 per cent).

7. After-tax Personal Income—up $20 billion (5 per cent).

8. Average After-Tax Income for Family of Four—up almost $370.

9. Corporate Profits (After Taxes)—up $3.5 billion (12 per cent).

10. Stock values—Dow-Jones up from 711 to 845 (19 per cent); total share value up over $100 billions.

Possibly the most forlorn figure at the Republican Convention was H. L. Hunt, the Texas oil billionaire, who spent the week passing out right-wing literature.

Gov. William Scranton's headquarters claimed that Hunt had taken over a full floor of the Jack Tar Hotel and was tossing around $1,000 bills like green confetti to promote Sen. Barry Goldwater.

However, this column tracked down Hunt and found him in a fashionable but modest hideaway in the Fairmont Hotel. He seemed more like a lonely old recluse than a high-spending Texas billionaire.

He had been handing out, not $1,000 bills, but pro-Goldwater tracts, he said. "I contributed to Goldwater's Senate race in 1952," Hunt said. "I haven't contributed anything to Goldwater or any of his movements since."

"I am not a big contributor," he added. "I used to be, seven or eight years ago. I think it is more important now to spend money on political education than political action."

His hesitancy to part with any of his millions was confirmed by Goldwater aides, who complained sorrowfully to this column that he had offered them advice but no money.

Hunt avoided reporters at the convention as if they were subversives. In his only interview he told this column: "You can ask questions, and I'll decide whether to answer them."

He acknowledged that he had brought a supply of tracts to the convention and that "friends" were helping him to distribute them.

Asked about the "friends," he identified them as Oklahoma delegates. He named Bud Wilkinson, the famous football coach, now running for the Senate in Oklahoma, as one who was helping to circulate his literature.

"Wilkinson is a great man," said Hunt. The 75-year-old billionaire confirmed a report that he had been caught slipping his tracts under the door of the New Jersey headquarters. He explained that the New Jersey delegation was holding a private meeting and the doors were locked. So, he enlisted the help of a younger, more agile man to poke two tracts under the door.

The Boyant Conservatives

SAN FRANCISCO—The GOP elephant, according to the unreconstructed liberals, is now a giraffe. He's got his neck really out.

What the liberals must reckon with, however, is that Barry Goldwater is entirely at home in the business of surviving perils. Who would have guessed last December that he would have come this far?

The record on its face is a tissue of wild improbabilities. Billed as the man who was a "natural" to fight John F. Kennedy, Goldwater is deprived of his target by the assassin's shots in Dallas. The pundits take this as a signal that Barry is through. He almost believes it himself. But the young Conservatives—the Youth for Goldwater and YAF (Young Americans for Freedom) organizations—plead with their champion to stick in there and fight. After much soul-searching, he acquiesces.

Then, limping through the cold New Hampshire villages on a sore foot, he muffs the first primary. The pundits again take this as a signal that Barry is through. He staggers a bit in Indiana and Illinois, losing primary votes to Harold Stassen and Margaret Chase Smith. Nixon cuts into his strength in Nebraska, Rockefeller bests him in Oregon. He comes into California with a huge combination of liberal Republicans against him. Rocky has millions to spend; Goldwater is scratching to get up a kitty. The polls give it to Rocky, but California pulls up its socks and goes for Goldwater as an underdog.

Still the pundits refuse to think he can make it. Comes the Cleveland governors' cabal and the Scranton boom. Surely Barry will stumble at the convention. But he doesn't.

The point of this recital is that there is some mysterious force welling up to sustain the Goldwater push in spite of every mistake and every obstacle. Again one thinks of the Harvard philosopher Alfred North Whitehead, who said "chance favors the prepared mind."

Goldwater is where he is because of the mysterious force exerted by the Conservative revival. This force has been gathering slowly over the past three decades. This columnist recalls the day when conservatism was presented by a couple of little magazines and a few exposed commentators such as the late George Sokolsky. I've watched the young conservatives come along over the years, fighting to command access to print. The years went by—and suddenly, at San Francisco, I ran into scores of kids who have gathered themselves miraculously into a fighting organization. There's David Frank, who used to be a waterboy at Bill Luckley's conservative "National Review." He's here on leave from the army, helping to direct William Miller's campaign for the Vice Presidency. There's Don Shafro, a youth for Goldwater enthusiast who has gone into the business of public relations. He's sitting in a trailer not far from the Cow Palace pulling electronic command post levers that let 10 million glinting flakes of gold drift down from the convention hall ceiling when Goldwater is placed in nomination.

Young editors of newspapers such as Stanton Evans of Indianapolis and Ed McDowell of Phoenix, Ariz., are here. Five years ago they were pounding shoe leather trying to catch on in journalism. Now they are running important editorial pages in the "Goldwater Country" that begins somewhere just west of Sewickley, Penna., or east Palestine, Ohio.

Conservatism is percolating. The civil rights struggle, which tends to fog the issue between economic freedom and state-dictated enterprise, can't wholly hide what is happening. A talk with delegate Tad Smith of Ed Paso, Texas, makes this clear. Tad Smith talks about his district, which is 45 per cent Latin (or Mexican) in its ethnic complexion, and 65 per cent Catholic. Civil rights, he says, controls some votes in his area. But mostly his supporters want freedom to engage in businesses of their own. They are conservatives in the true American sense.

Every time Goldwater has seemed to droop, the force from below has buoyed him up. Commentators who have not had contact with a Dave Franke, a Don Shafro, a Stan Evans or an Ed McDowell have tended to miss the fact that a mental revolution is surfacing after a long period of subterranean gestation.

Ike's Moment Was Priceless

If he never did another thing in his life, Dwight D. Eisenhower provided the nation with a priceless moment of Americana at the Republican Convention in San Francisco. It had been merely an exercise in boredom and poor management—speakers who got lost in traffic, speakers who couldn't be found in the Cow Palace, speakers who couldn't speak very well, delays in schedule and meaningless meanderings—until good ole Ike took the rostrum and rallied against the "commentators and columnists" who didn't agree with the GOP. That really brought them to their feet as nothing else in his speech did—not his pleas for respect of civil rights, his denunciation of present government spending, even his recitation of wars started by the Democrats while he carefully refrained from mentioning the war started by Abraham Lincoln.

The whistles blew, the horns tooted, the old men with the cigars in their mouths applauded, the sunflowers wagged, the Hawaiian leis bounced, the placards jostled each other and the arena really rocked—suggesting to the home viewer that the Republican delegates are much angrier at disrespectful "commentators and columnists" than they are with those who deny equality under the law to Negroes.

Well, now we know who the enemies are. Not the Communists. Not the church-burners, the child-killers, the lynchers. The ones you have to lick are the commentators and the columnists.

Keeping Well . . .

POISON IVY is a perennial problem and is best handled by learning to recognize and avoid "the leaflets three." On the other hand, we are fortunate in having an excellent remedy for those who develop the eruption. Corticosteroid tablets may be taken daily and continued for five days after the blisters disappear.

Poison ivy is contact dermatitis and occurs when the oily fraction of the plant touches the skin. It has been said that nobody is born sensitive to poison ivy. They get this way after first contact with the plant. Some are immune but 65 per cent of our population is estimated to be susceptible.

Some people are more sensitive than others but nobody is so sensitive that he develops the typical eruption on looking at or walking by the plant. Those who say this usually were poisoned indirectly by touching a pet or clothing of a member of the family who rubbed up against the ivy.

The fluid in the blister does not harbor the irritant; consequently, the individual is not contagious after the eruption appears. Dermatitis can be warded off by washing the oily substance from the skin with soap and water within one or two hours after exposure. More harm than good is done when the skin is washed after the rash occurs.

Is there something a sensitive person can take to increase resistance to poison ivy? Yes, but the effect is temporary. It is not practical for most of us. An injectable extract of the plant, for example, will make many people less sensitive. Oral extracts also are available but are less efficient. But there is no harm in trying the extracts when you are likely to come in contact with poison ivy.

Cold compresses soaked in aluminum acetate will prove soothing as will drying lotions containing a small amount of phenol. Antihistamine tablets often relieve itching.

D. V. writes: What do you know about dehydration pills to reduce? I'd like to take off 40 pounds.

REPLY—These pills help eliminate the water that forms when the body burns up its own fat. This takes place only when the individual goes on a low caloric diet and eats so little the body must rely for energy upon its own fatty tissues.

E. W. S. writes: How can I stop the great desire I have for salt? I'm supposed to cut down but whenever I try, the longing is so great I become nervous and upset.

REPLY—It takes determination. Try a salt substitute at the table. A tranquilizer may help overcome the nervousness until the salt habit is broken.

Mrs. C. writes: Both my children are nearsighted. Both are bookworms. Will too much reading worsen this condition?

REPLY—No. Nearsightedness tends to progress spontaneously but reading for hours is not the cause. Nearsighted children prefer nearsighted projects.

Goldwater: Where He Stands, Sir

WASHINGTON (AP)—Following are the views of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Republican presidential nominee, on a variety of issues, as expressed in his books, interviews, campaign speeches, statements and other public remarks:

AGRICULTURE

"Most of our farm ills have been the product of government price-fixing," Goldwater said in Redding, Calif., on May 25.

He suggested Feb. 12 in Portland, Ore., that the federal government's only involvement with farmers should be in a loan guarantee program similar to that of the Federal Housing Administration, to make money available when it really is needed.

"This is the only place I see now for the federal government to act directly with the farmers," he said. "You'll find that all of the crops that are kept at a high unnatural price are giving way to foreign competition."

At Littleton, N.H., on Feb. 5, he said a federal withdrawal from farm subsidies could be accomplished over a three-to-five-year period.

"The 30 per cent of our agriculture now under the President's support program should be slowly withdrawn from it, so that at the end of a reasonable period of time the law of supply and demand will determine the prices the farmers receive," Goldwater said Oct. 20, 1963, in response to questions submitted by The Associated Press.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Goldwater, commenting on July 12 on the Republican platform plank on civil rights, declared that as president he would enforce the new law and added:

"I don't think either party should try at this time to go beyond the present bill, which is the law."

Talking of his opposition to the measure on constitutional grounds, Goldwater said "It's up to the Supreme Court to decide whether I was right or wrong."

He said a president promises to uphold all the laws and "if I didn't believe I could do it I'd withdraw from the race right now."

On July 10, Goldwater told the Republican platform committee he would not as president seek repeal of the civil rights law. "No," he said, "that's not in my opinion the duty of a president."

"Even though I voted with the minority I stand with the majority."

"I still feel that two of the titles are unconstitutional, and the Supreme Court will determine that," he said.

Goldwater added: "If I am your president, I will do something about this in more ways than the law."

He said he would use the prestige of the presidency to seek an end to discrimination of all sorts.

"This is fundamentally a matter of the heart," Goldwater said in reply to an Associated Press questionnaire on July 5.

"We now have too much government and too little understanding in these matters; too much mob and too little individual responsibility."

Announcing he would vote against the civil rights bill, Goldwater said on the Senate floor June 18; "I am unalterably opposed to discrimination or segregation on the basis of race, color or creed; not only my words, but more importantly my actions have repeatedly demonstrated the sincerity of my feeling in this regard."

Goldwater said he would reluctantly vote against the bill because the public accommodations and Fair Employment Practices Commission sections "fly in the face of the Constitution and require for their execution the creation of a police state."

"I think I can safely say that I can run on a platform that would contain the civil rights bill that passes Congress," Goldwater said June 7 in Chester, Pa., adding: "I can assure you it won't be the one that is before us now."

In San Diego on May 26, Goldwater said he opposed the public accommodations and fair employment sections of the civil rights bill and "the mainstream of the Republican party in Congress feels either they have to go or to be modified."

"If they'd take Title 7 out altogether and make Title 2 what it was originally meant to be—the traditional right of the states—then I would go for the bill."

"Although frankly," he said, "I think it's like a $3 bill, it's a phoney. There's only one good section, the school integration section, the rest we already have in law."

"As your president," he said May 25 in Oakland, Calif., "I would immediately seek to restore civil order so that our discussion of civil rights could proceed with open hearts and minds."

Explaining a shift in views he made about 18 months earlier after consulting with legal advisers, Goldwater said in a television interview May 24:

"At one time I felt that it was improper for the federal government to intervene in a local school system as far as integration goes."

"I believe now that this is possible, and I believe the machinery is there to do it, and I think the criticism I would aim at the attorney generals we have had is that they haven't used the machinery."

In a campaign position paper issued April 14, Goldwater said:

"We must always make a sharp distinction between civil rights guaranteed under the Constitution and those rights of association that are basically moral issues and cannot be resolved by passing unenforceable federal laws."

He said the right to vote, to equal treatment before the law, to hold property and to the protection of contracts are guaranteed by the Constitution.

In San Francisco on March 31, Goldwater said:

"I'll stack my civil rights record with any white man in this country. I've done something about it."

"We never write off votes," he said, "but I look at it in a realistic way. In the large cities the Negro vote has been about 80 per cent Democratic in national elections."

"I think if any Negro read my record he'd find a better friend in me," Goldwater said in Detroit on March 25.

Goldwater said in Stockton, Calif., on March 18; "I don't believe this problem can be solved by law." As president, he said, "I would continue doing what I've been doing as an individual American. I think that moral persuasion and the prestige of a president can do more to solve this problem than law ever can."

"I don't want to see my country destroyed, the Constitution destroyed, in a vain attempt to solve a problem that can only be solved in the hearts of men," he said.

At Bristol, N.H., on Feb. 19, he said "I can't vote for the civil rights bill with either one of these sections in it." He was referring to the public accommodations and fair employment practices provisions.

"Now if a state wants to pass either one of these it is their prerogative," he said. "I would resist it in my own state."

Goldwater later was quoted as endorsing in a letter a public accommodations ordinance for his home town of Phoenix.

On Feb. 19 in Hanover, N.H., he said he thinks civil rights can become a reality in the South without legislation. "Where it can be speeded up by federal action would be in the schools," he said.

Goldwater said in Globe, Ariz., on Feb. 14 the public accommodations section "would force you to admit a drunk or a murderer or an insane person into your place of business." He said that the fair employment section of the bill would lead to a quota system of hiring and "you are going to lose your right to select your employees."

In Chicago on Feb. 8 he said "I couldn't get enough of the Negro vote to worry about what I did on any legislation. I regret that."

CUBA

"We must impose, again, an effective economic-military blockade on Cuba. We must enforce our restrictions and levy penalties against shipping which attempts to trade with both the United States and Cuba. We must have an equally effective blockade against the export of agitators and arms from Cuba," Goldwater said July 5.

"A tight blockade around Cuba would heavily undermine Castro's power, put an unacceptably high price on the Soviet aid which is propping up his police state, and enable the people of Cuba themselves—those inside the country, together with an exile army—to live under freedom once more. Immediate U.S. recognition of a Cuban government—in-exile would be the indispensable first step toward Cuban self-liberation. Such a government could ask for every form of U.S. and Organization of American States support—and ought to receive it."

Goldwater also said the administration is avoiding the intent of Congress that a foreign aid ban "should be used to choke off free world trade with Cuba."

"People realize that sooner or later, whether we like it or not, we're going to have to get rid of communism in Cuba or we're going to have a Communist Latin America," he said in San Diego March 20.

In Lakeport, Calif., on March

18, Goldwater said action must be taken against Castro in concert with other Hemisphere nations and "if we don't do this . . . we ourselves will some day have to repeat what we did in 1898."

When Castro halted the water supply to the Guantanamo Bay Naval Base, Goldwater, campaigning in Kingston, N.H., said:

"I hope the President has the courage to tell Castro turn that water back on or we're going to turn it on ourselves . . . turn it on or the Marines will turn it on for you and keep it on."

He repeated that position in Los Angeles on May 27. "Had I been the commanding officer of the base, I probably would have taken that action," he said. "I believe in protecting the American people first and then we'll worry about what happens afterwards."

He said in Washington on Feb. 9 he would favor the use of U.S. warships to halt shipments into Cuba—including such things as British buses and French products.

"Our allies are leaving us to do business with Cuba," he said. "The blockade that we have had has not been successful because they are still in business down there."

But Goldwater said during his New Hampshire campaign that the United States must take much of the blame. He pointed to the example set by the U.S. wheat deal with the Soviet Union.

DEFENSE

"Basic strategic concepts for the security of this nation demanded drastic reassessment with the advent of the age of space and missiles. This nation cannot survive, in this new era without mastery of the uses of space and heavy reliance on missile systems as against a mixed force—missiles, manned aircraft, and naval vessels of all types," Goldwater said July 5.

"I have raised, and will continue to raise until all the facts are in, fundamental questions about the reliability of our intercontinental ballistic missiles. It is not a question of theoretical accuracy. The fact is that not one of our advanced ICBMs has ever been subjected to a full test—of all component systems, including warheads—under simulated battle conditions."

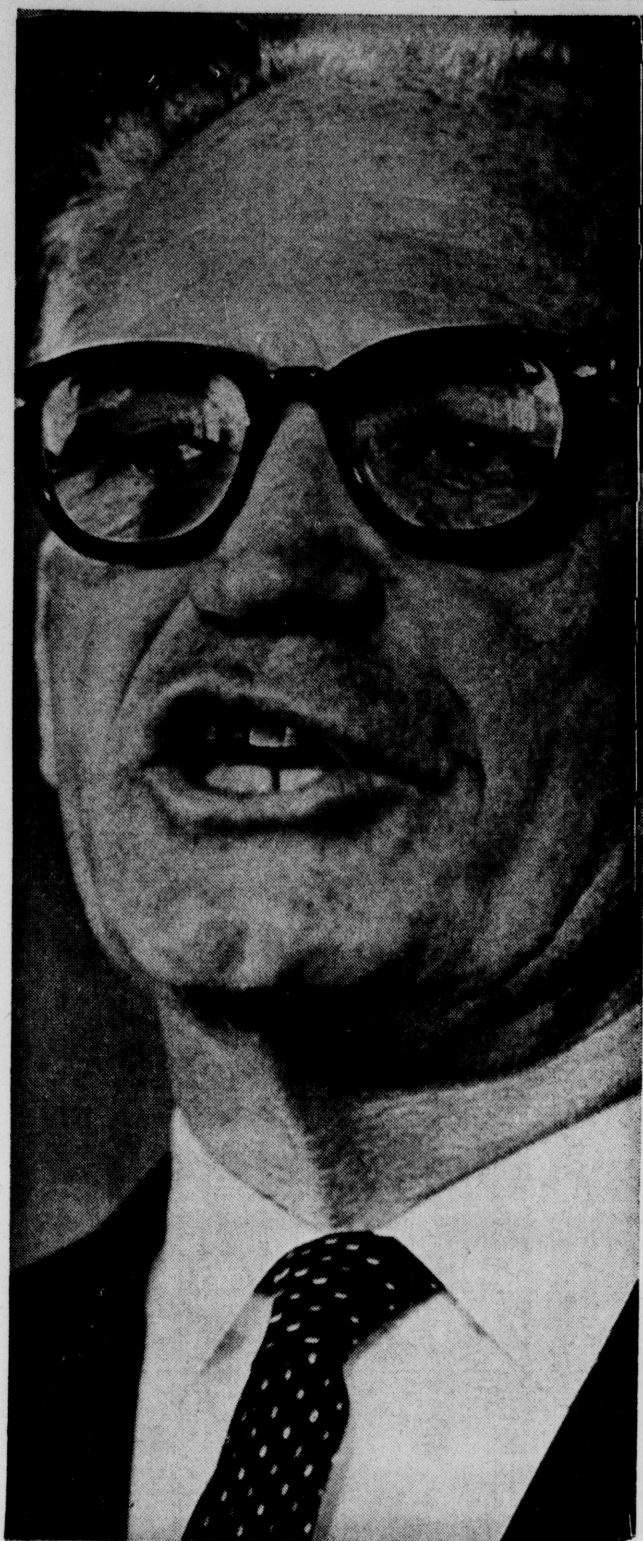

In Dallas, June 16, Goldwater said the nation is being fed "packets of lies" by the Pentagon about U.S. missile strength. "Whether we like it or not, we are in second place," he said, "and I defy the czar of the Pentagon to dispute that statement."

Reasserting a long-standing charge, Goldwater said at Chester, Pa., on June 7 that "unless the United States develops a new manned bomber, 1970 'could find us with between 30 and 40 per cent of our nuclear strike force gone.'"

In his April 14 position paper, Goldwater said the nuclear test ban treaty—which he opposed—"means that we cannot properly test even our present missile systems."

He also complained that the United States has "no present programs looking toward primarily military applications for the environment of space."

Goldwater said there is every

SENATOR BARRY M. GOLDWATER

reason to believe the Soviet Union has such programs.

Championing the manned bomber, he said:

"If we place over-reliance on missiles rather than a mixed arsenal, our only reactions to unacceptable Soviet probes would have to be submission—or all-out nuclear war. I want to avoid the necessity of nuclear war."

"In defense matters you are inflexible if you have only one major weapons system at your disposal," he said.

He also lodged again a long-standing complaint against Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara:

"This administration has depended too heavily and too exclusively on untrained civilian officials, while tending to downgrade the advice of skilled and dedicated career members of the military."

In Detroit on March 25, he accused McNamara of "ladder sheet leadership leading to a deterrent gap in the next decade."

In Oceanside, Calif., on March 20, Goldwater protested a U.S.-Soviet bomber burning deal to destroy B47s if the Russians burned badgers bombers.

"We'll still have our missiles and they'll have theirs," he said, "and I think theirs are a little more reliable than ours."

"I make the flat charge that Secretary McNamara and the State Department are engaged in unilateral disarmament at the expense of peace and at the expense of freedom."

McNamara, Goldwater said Jan. 23, "has probably saved the country more money and cost it more morale than any secretary in the past."

The senator said in Franklin, N.H., on Feb. 20 if he were president he would fire McNamara.

ECONOMY

In a position paper issued late in June, Goldwater said he would act to hold down federal spending "by setting priorities—clearly stated and clearly understood."

To hold down the federal budget, he said, local governments should be taking on more responsibilities in meeting clearly established needs.

"Urban renewal and welfare services are two prime examples of what I mean," he said. "At the opposite end of the scale—of necessary federal responsibilities—are the needs of defense and national security."

In Dallas, Tex., June 15, Goldwater said "If we continue to enlarge the power and the purse of the federal government at the rate we are now enlarging both, we will have to institute a new economic system—we will have to adopt a form of U.S. socialism within the next several presidential terms, and maybe sooner than that."

President Johnson, he said in Monterey, Calif., May 26, has "absolutely no regard for the value of the dollar. We are headed for about a $10-billion deficit."

"As your president I would devote more of my interest and time to seeing to it that the American dollar retains its value," he said.

[The remainder of Sen. Goldwater's views on key issues in the campaign will be printed here tomorrow.]

By ROB WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A friend once said of Barry Goldwater: "He does everything the hard way. In baseball he even batted crosshanded."

Politics didn't change Goldwater.

After his election to the Senate in 1952 it didn't take him long to raise the nation's blood pressure.

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, said publicly: "Goldwater is the nation's No. 1 political fanatic, labor baiter and peddler of class hatred."

A high ranking military commander once said privately: "Barry Goldwater may be the only man who can lead this nation out of the mess in which it is trapped."

Before he had completed his first Senate term, Goldwater had become the recognized leader of the conservative cause.

He is 6 feet, weighs an unchanging 185, has curly salt-and-pepper hair, a jutting jaw and an outdoorsman's tan.

He has expensive tastes, as proven by his home atop a hill overlooking Phoenix, equipped with electronic gadgets.

Next to his desk is a VHF radio that provides weather reports. He can press a button and a movie screen rolls down from the ceiling of the study. His lawn-sprinkling system is electronically operated and the sound of a miniature waterfall in his garden is piped over his hi-fi system. One bathroom is papered with snapshots taken by the senator.

How was his man created? The past holds some answers.

His grandfather, Michael Goldwasser, one of 22 children, escaped the horrors of the ghetto and oppressive anti-Semitic laws of his native Konin, Poland, in 1848.

His travels carried him to Paris, to England, to New York and finally to the gold fields of California. He prospected the streams and the mountains until he opened a saloon, a venture that ultimately resulted in the Goldwater department store empire of Arizona. Big Mike believed anyone could be a success in the United States if he had guts and a willingness to work.

Barry Goldwater's mother came to Arizona from Illinois in 1909 at the age of 25 with a doctor's word still fresh in her mind: She had tuberculosis and only six months to live. At the age of 89, Josephine Goldwater watched her son nominated as Republican presidential candidate Wednesday night.

She often told her son: "Don't enter a race you can't win. If you lose don't tell me about it."

From the time Barry was a toddler, his mother took him with brother Bob and sister Carolyn to the U.S. Indian school some two miles from the old family home in Phoenix. They made the trip daily, in rain, wind or scorching Arizona heat. They went to see the flag ceremonies. Barry would stand at attention as Old Glory slid down the flagpole and hold that position until the last strains of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Barry's uncle Mike, a Democrat and a political conservative, schooled his nephew in the ways of politics. And he told him repeatedly that if a man's belief in an issue was firm and honest, he should stay with it no matter what the odds, nor how heavy the criticism.

From the grandfather, the uncle and mother came the shaping of an Arizona senator

The Goldwater Story, Part II

On an April morning in 1957, Goldwater refused a luncheon invitation from President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Goldwater was putting the final touches on a speech blasting the GOP administration when the President called with the invitation. Goldwater decided it wouldn't be fair to dine with the President, then blast him verbally on the senate floor.

That day Goldwater said, "It is disillusioning to see the Republican party plunging headlong into the same dismal state experienced by the traditional democratic principles of Jefferson and Jackson during the days of the New Deal and Fair Deal.

"To hear a president tell us, as Mr. Eisenhower told the Washington Conference of the Advertising Council, that we must educate Americans to a need for federal aid to domestic schools, welfare, and health programs astounds me. Mr. President, every item in the federal budget can, and must, be reduced."

From then, Barry Goldwater traveled his own route, a road of conservatism that steadily attracted new followers.

Church Folks Gather Books

Prompted by a feature story which originally appeared in a Buffalo, N. Y., daily, several local church groups are co-operating in a book-collection project which will benefit the Great Valley camp operated by the New York State Division for Youth.

MRS. NELSON Bonning of 300 Follett Run Rd., who instigated the local plan, reports books are being collected by the following churches: Bethel EUB, St. Paul's Lutheran, First Church of the Nazarene, Bethlehem Covenant, Calvary Baptist, and St. Joseph's of Warren; also the Clarendon Church of God.

Members of these parishes and friends are requested to leave books at the church nearest to them and to note the deadline has been set for August 12.

According to camp officials, the boys are erecting shelves in their new library and will appreciate adventure stories, mystery tales, good western fiction, sports stories with a Christian theme, and biographies of a style readily-understood by the 14-15-year-old mind.

WHEN THE books have been collected from the various churches, Mr. and Mrs. Bonning and their children will take them by truck to the camp. They expect to spend the day inspecting the facilities as guests of the assistant director, Mr. Mucigorosso.

Shopping 'Round Warren

By Natalie Williams

When it's just too hot to cook—and it certainly is these days—a good, hearty salad is just the dish. Salads look cool and refreshing . . . they provide all the essential vitamins and minerals . . . and they're no trouble at all to make. You can prepare them ahead of time and pop them into the refrigerator to stay crisp while you take a cool shower, splash yourself all over with your favorite cologne and put on your prettiest dress. Serve on an attractive table with fresh flowers and table mats, add the fragrance of a handmade candle like red roses or magnolia (you'll find these at Beverly's), some little rolls or party rye slices and a tempting cold dessert. Iced tea or coffee to be sure—or chilled rose wine if you prefer—and your meal is complete.

For something delightfully new and a really light salad if it's just you and the girls—we'll talk about man-type salads later—try the big news for salad lovers in celery flavored or mixed vegetable flavor Jello. These two new gelatin flavors were created especially for salads to complement the flavor of the vegetables. You don't really need a dressing but you can use one if you like depending upon what you add to the mold—freshly cut vegetables or seafood, meat or chicken.

For another nice light salad idea try egg salad in tomato roses on a bed of greens. Mix chopped hard-cooked egg with chopped green pepper, a little salt and a bit of curry powder and salad dressing to moisten. Cut tomatoes into sections almost to stem end and peel back the skin to form petals. Stuff and top with salad dressing garnished with a sprig of parsley, a mint leaf or walnut half.

A big bowl of tossed salad makes a dish even the men go for. Vary the ingredients by using different kinds of greens—Boston lettuce, romaine, escarole, endive, watercress, spinach. Vary it in other ways—by adding radish slices, cucumber, strips of green pepper, tomato quarters . . . ripe olives, anchovy filets and red onion rings . . . diced ham and cheese. Vary the dressing according to the combination—oil and vinegar, thousand island, Roquefort.

WHEN THE books have been collected from the various churches, Mr. and Mrs. Bonning and their children will take them by truck to the camp. They expect to spend the day inspecting the facilities as guests of the assistant director, Mr. Mucigorosso.

An Italian tossed salad is delightful indeed sprinkled with grated Parmesan. A tossed green salad is zesty with the addition of crumbled pretzels. Some salads profit by the addition of avocado strips. And don't forget the artichoke hearts.

Then there's the vegetable salads. Like green beans tossed with a bit of garlic salt and dry mustard, olive oil and tarragon vinegar, then with slices of celery, radishes and small green onions. In the center of the dish nest hard-cooked egg slices on lettuce leaves on a ring of salami.

For dessert there's always strawberries with cream . . . or melon balls . . . or rosy wedges of watermelon. Or a festive dessert made with appleauce and served in parfait glasses—layers of appleauce blended with a bit of cinnamon alternating with whipped cream, topped by a cherry and mint sprig or some other decoration your imagination dictates.

Speaking of fruits, fresh nectarines are abundant in supermarkets now and will be available into September. And Bartlett pears will be in good supply from early August through October. These two fruits provide delightful summer dishes. For instance, take nectarines. Add them diced and unpeeled with slivered almonds to chicken or seafood salads. Make them into a salad spectacular or the more exotic nectarine salad orientale. Want the recipes? Write to Nectarine Administrative Committee, 701 Fulton Ave., Sacramento, Calif. 95825. Pears? There's golden pear ring and chutney pear salad and a host of other good ideas from the Advisory Board for the promotion of Fresh California Bartlett Pears, same address.

That's it except for a few suggestions if you're serving salad as a side dish. It doesn't always have to be lettuce wedges or lettuce and tomato. Try beets and onions with vinaigrette sauce or sour cream, cucumbers in sour cream garnished with chopped chives, watercress Chinese style, avocado or orange sections with onion slices. The list is endless—let your imagination be your guide. Eat your way to health with salads and keep cool.

Bridge Club Is Arranging Aug. Picnic

Marconi Bridge Club had its weekly tournament last night with eight tables in play. Using the Mitchell movement and playing against a North-South average of 84, M. A. Kornreich and Mrs. John Donovan held high score with 113½; second, Mr. and Mrs. James Potter, 90½; third, Mrs. J. A. Bevevino and Miss Felicia Lucia, 87½; fourth, Mr. and Mrs. James Howell, 83½.

East-West average was 72 with Harry Conarro Jr. and Robert Sokolski in first position with 86½; second, Gus Bova and Louis Petula, 76; third, Mrs. M. A. Kornreich and Henry Huntzinger, 75; fourth, Dale Hauser and Mrs. Harry Conarro Jr., 73½.

Plans are being made for the fourth annual picnic August 10 at the Marconi Outing Club, it is announced, and all area players are invited.

GROUPS PICNIC

Golden Agers of the Warren and Warren State Hospital chapters will picnic Thursday at Wilder Field in Irvine. Each member of the local group attending is asked to bring a turban and table service and those needing transportation are asked to meet at the YWCA activities building at 11 a. m.

The Party Line

This column's Best Wishes for today go to Mrs. Nettie Sherard, who will be celebrating her 95th birthday anniversary on Wednesday. The former Sugar Grove resident, presently at the Rouse Home in Youngsville, is described as being in good health. Her family plans to visit her tomorrow to remember her with a birthday cake.

Miss Jean Gardner, daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Gardner of Mt. Lebanon, Pittsburgh, is here to spend the week with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Dean A. Anderson, 409 Liberty St.

Ralph Ericsson of Houston, Texas, was a weekend guest at the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Francis Ericsson, 2 Beaty Ct.

Committees for the annual Youngsville Community Fair are whipping plans into shape and will be announcing details soon. One of the most recent area groups listing plans for a display booth is Mountain Grange of Tidouite.

We're not sure if it is a record for the community, but Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department has made it 22 in a row with its re-election of Leonard Falbriski to the chief's post.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kluge and children, Ann, Robert and Janet, have returned to their home in Severna Park, Md., after a week's vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Rasmussen, 25 Brook St.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Williamson and son, Maynard, of 276 Buchanan St., left Monday morning for a few days' visit at the New York World's Fair.

Captain Richard Smith, accompanied by his wife, Lorna, and their daughters, Carrie and Jennifer, is scheduled to return to the United States August 7 after two years in Teheran with the U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group to Iran.

Arriving aboard the American Export Ship Constitution, they will visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ruel H. Smith, 416 Market St., before proceeding to his next assignment with the Ordnance Department in Milan, Tenn.

Capt. Smith was graduated and commissioned at Pennsylvania Military College in 1954 and served with the Regular Army's Ordnance Division in Iceland in 1956.

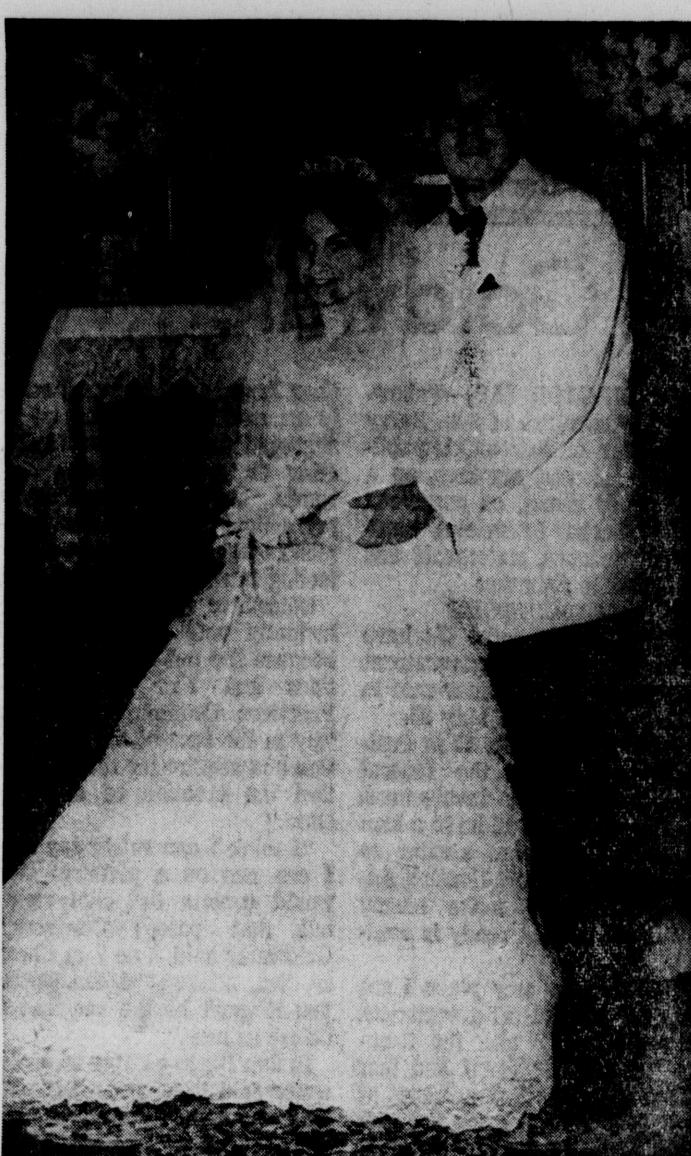

Mrs. Josephine Knoll, 201 Pennsylvania Ave. west, is visiting relatives in Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Wilbur Post and sons, David and Wilbur Jr., with Mrs. Edward Fitzgerald and son, Edward Jr., and Miss Joanne Werlin, are spending 10 days visiting friends in Staten Island, N. Y., and attending the World's Fair.

Dan Doherty Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan J. Doherty of 211 Canton St., has been home on a three-week leave before reporting today for assignment aboard the submarine USS Charr in San Diego, Calif. His parents and three other children were in New London, Conn., in early July to attend his graduation from Submarine School and to bring him back to Warren.

Local relatives in Union City Sunday to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. David York report the former is home after a month's treatment in Union City Hospital for a back injury incurred at work. The Yorks are both former Warren residents, having been transferred to Union City by Pennsylvania Gas Co.

A note from Miss Katherine I. Mason, formerly of Warren and now a resident of the Sarah A. Reed Home, 2224 Sassafraus St., Erie, relays the news that Mrs. Hazel H. Van Camp died July 11 at the home of her daughter in Girard. Burial followed in Girard Cemetery. Mrs. Van Camp spent many summers with Miss Mason in Warren and had made many friends here.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM S. VAN CISE

Baran-Van Cise Wedding In Saint Luke's Church

PITTSFIELD — White glads and mums decorated the altar of St. Luke's Catholic Church in Youngsville on July 11, when Mary Victoria Baran became the bride of William S. Van Cise.

THE BRIDE is the foster-daughter of Mrs. Mildred Danuski of Pittsfield RD 1 and he is the son of Mrs. Anna Van Cise and the late Kenneth Van Cise of E. South St., Corry.

Celebrating the Nuptial Mass and reading the double ring service at 11 a.m. was the Rev. Charles M. Hurley. With Karen Hajnik at the organ, St. Luke's Choir sang "Mother Dear, O Pray for Me," "Ave Maria" and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother." During the Offertory, the bride placed a bouquet of carnations on the altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary and the choir sang "Mother, At Thy Feet Is Kneeling."

ANTHONY Baran of East St. Louis, Mo., escorted his sister. Attendants, nieces of the bride, were Patricia Taydus, maid of honor; Gloria Stec and Kathleen Taydus, bridesmaids; Linda Kowalski, flower girl.

Stanley Kostyal carried the rings on a heart-shaped pillow which was lace-trimmed and had ribbon streamers knotted with lily of the valley. Kenneth Van Cise served as best man for his brother. Ushering were another brother, Ronald Van Cise, and a nephew of the bride, Thomas Taydus.

FASHIONED of white Chantilly lace, the bride's gown featured a scalloped Sabrina neckline, Saxon sleeves and a sequin-accented basque bodice. The very bouffant skirt was a cascade of ruffled tiers, terminating in a sweeping chapel train. With it she wore white shoes with lace insets.

Her hand-rolled scalloped veil, studded with brilliants, was attached to an organza crown trimmed with cut crystal; her rhinestone cross and earrings were the bridegroom's gift. Carried with her white Prayer Book was a white orchid, carnations and ribbon shower with lily of the valley.

THE HONOR attendant appeared in orchid-embossed taffeta, Miss Stec in honeydew green, Miss Kathleen Taydus in aqua. Their gowns were styled with scoop necklines, elbow sleeves and dome-shaped ballerina skirts with bow trim.

Their matching headpieces were rosettes with bouffant veiling, shoes matched their gowns and each carried a carnation bouquet in the color of her gown. Their rhinestone crosses were the bride's gifts.

Carrying a basket of mixed carnations, the flower girl wore a short nylon dress combining shades of yellow, orchid, blue

Recognition Is Accorded Former Sheffield Priest

SHEFFIELD — Former parishioners and friends in the area have learned of additional recognition being given the Rev. Dr. Basil Boysak, who served St. Michael's Eastern Rite Catholic Church here as his first assignment after coming to America. He presently is pastor of a parish in Granville, N. Y.

Father Boysak, a native of Carpatho-Ukraine, was ordained in 1935. Forced to leave his homeland during World War II, he continued his studies at University of Prague, where he was awarded a doctorate in philosophy in 1945.

Coming to this country, he was assigned as pastor of St. Michael's in Sheffield. Undertaking research in Slavic studies, he later enrolled in the University of Montreal. In 1958, he received his Master of Arts from the Faculty of Letters and, in 1961, became a Doctor of Slavistic Letters.

Described as a humble man of God, Father Boysak was so profoundly moved by the tremendous sacrifice of his people for the cause of Holy Union, especially by the heroic action of Bishop M. M. Olshavsky (1743-1767), he resolved to pursue the dogmatical approach to the question.

This presented the opportunity to achieve his Master's degree in Sacred Theology in 1962. Last year, he received wide acclaim on the publication of a scholarly book entitled "The Fate of the Holy Union in Carpatho-Ukraine."

Said to have been the product of painstaking research, his book merited high praise from the University press (cf. "La Presse," May 6, 1961, pg. 15), and the Ukrainian Catholic press in Canada and the United States.

Congratulations are being extended again this year, the occasion being his third doctorate. On June 3, the Catholic University of Montreal, Quebec, conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology. His thesis on "The Teachings on Unity by Bishop M. M. Olshavsky" is soon to be published.

Former Warren Minister Is Speaker in Cassadaga

Heard as guest minister in the Cassadaga, N. Y., Community Church on Sunday was a former Warren pastor, the Rev. Harold F. Stoddard. He spoke during the 11 a. m. worship period, using the subject "Where Do You Sit?"

A native of Jamestown, N. Y., and graduate of its High School in 1916, he continued his studies at Colgate University and Colgate-Rochester Divinity School.

HE WAS pastor of Warren's First Baptist Church from 1923 to 1931, going from here to Bellevue Baptist in Pittsburgh 1931-39; and was in Lima, Ohio, from 1939 to 1946.

After that, he served from 1947 to 1956 as executive secretary of the New Jersey Baptist Convention and as president of the Baptist Institute for the next five years.

MR. STODDARD was a delegate to the Baptist World Alliance in London, England, in 1955 and served as president of the American Baptist Ministers' Council.

The former local minister is presently residing in St. Petersburg, Fla., and is engaged in writing Sunday School curriculum material for the American Baptist Publications Society.

Spectacular Barbecues Easy With Canned Condensed Soup

Why be known as a "good" barbecue chef, when, with little effort you can earn the reputation of "spectacular"?

Any cook knows that the secret is "saucing". A stock of canned condensed soups such as beef broth, tomato, and consommé, can launch an ordinary meal right into a compliment-worthy feast.

If a meal from the grill is on the agenda for tonight, why not try this exotic sauce for spit broilers... and, in fact, it's so good, you'll want to ask some friends to join in your gustatory victory.

Canned condensed beef broth and tomato soups combine as the sprightly base... and the addition of curry powder and chopped chutney provides the magic touch. To complement the main dish, a cool refreshing fruit salad goes along. A tray of cheeses and crackers is the final "coup de grace".

BOMBAY BARBECUE

- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 tablespoon curry powder
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed beef broth
- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed tomato soup
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon chopped chutney

In saucepan, cook onion with curry in butter until tender. Stir in flour. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer 5 minutes, stirring now and then.

Chicken (Outdoor Method): Prepare sauce. Brush 3 split broilers (2 to 2 1/2 pounds each) with salad oil; place on grill, skin-side up, about 6 inches above glowing coals. Cook 15 minutes, turn and cook 15 minutes longer. Brush with sauce; continue cooking 30 minutes or until chicken is done, basting with sauce and turning every 5 minutes.

World War II Claims Deadline Is Extended Until Jan. 15, 1965

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dr. Edward D. Re, Chairman of the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission has announced that the commission has extended until Jan. 15, 1965, the deadline for filing World War II claims under Public Law 87-846, the General War Claims Act.

IN MAKING this announcement the chairman stated that the commission had recently received countless numbers of inquiries by telephone, telegram and otherwise from potential claimants who, for various reasons, were unable to file claims before the initial deadline of July 15, 1964. Accordingly, the commission has exercised its discretionary power to extend the deadline for filing in favor of these potential claimants.

Dr. Re stated that over 60,000 notices had been mailed to potential claimants but that vast numbers had been returned un-deliverable due to failure to advise the commission of change of address. It is hoped, he said, that these potential claimants can now be notified through the press.

THE STATUTE authorizes a period for filing claims not to exceed 18 months from the date of original publication in the Federal Register. Since the original publication of July 16, 1963, fixed a one-year period for filing, this extension to Jan. 15, 1965, is the last one that may be granted pursuant to the express provisions of the statute.

The chairman urged all individuals, corporations and other entities who have claims under Public Law 87-846 to file them without delay. This statute provides for four general categories of claims of nationals of the United States:

(1) Property damages and losses arising out of World War II in certain specified countries and areas of Europe and in territory attacked or occupied by Japanese military forces;

(2) Damage, loss or destruction of ships and ship cargoes as a result of military action by Germany or Japan during World War II;

(3) Death, personal injuries, or property losses of civilian American passengers on the high seas resulting from military action by Germany or Japan.

Awards granted by the Commission will be certified to the Secretary of the Treasury for payment as provided by law. It is estimated that in excess of $220 million will ultimately be available for payment of these claims. The money to finance this program does not come from the taxpayer's pocket but from the proceeds of former enemy assets seized by the United States Government during World War II.

In urging all potential claimants to file their claims without delay, Chairman Edward D. Re pointed out that claims must be submitted on official applications forms which may be obtained from the office of the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices declined on a fairly broad front early this afternoon.

Numerous losses amounted to major fractions. Practically every stock group was lower, including steels, motors, rails, aircrafts and airlines.

The market has been rising for six straight weeks and touched an all-time high Friday.

At noon, The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .9 at 319.9 with industrials off 1.3, rails down .6 and utilities .3 lower.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 2.48 at 846.91 at noon.

After Monday's setback, some brokers seemed to think the market would undergo further "consolidation" before resuming its higher trend.

General Motors slid a point or so. Also down were Ford and Chrysler, each by major fractions. Studebaker gained a little and American Motors was unchanged.

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic and Jones and Laughlin were down around 1/2.

Southern Pacific gained a small amount and Chicago & Eastern Illinois "A" was up about 2. Most others declined, including New York Central and Pennsylvania.

Polaroid fell about 2 while Bell and Howell was off a small fraction. Bell and Howell will make cameras for Polaroid. Xerox added almost 1 1/2 while IBM lost about the same amount. Control Data fell more than 2.

Other losers of around a point or more included U.S. Gypsum, Du Pont and Motorola.

(Business News Analysis)

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. dollar is so healthy right now that international bankers seem confident it will take in stride some bad news being readied in Washington.

The deficit in U.S. international payments has turned sour again after looking unusually good in the first months of this year. When large enough, the deficit is a potential threat to the nation's gold reserves, but already the U.S. Treasury is moving to ward off any new drain.

And the dollar's strong comeback last year has decimated the ranks of foreign doubters who caused runs on gold in former years.

The bad news expected soon is almost a replica of last summer's. Then the deficit spurred sharply. A few feared the gold reserves and the dollar's value in world money marts might suffer drastically. Neither event took place.

Bova Attends MONY Course in New York

Matthew Bova, of 212 Russell St., Warren, has completed a week-long series of business and educational conferences at the New York Hilton Hotel for Mutual Of New York sales leaders and top executives of the life and health insurance company.

The latest developments in life, health and group insurance and pension plans were discussed. Participation was limited to top-ranking members of MONY's field sales force.

At least two ships of the Spanish Armada sunk near the Blasket Islands, off the southwest Irish coast. One carried 50,000 gold and silver coins and 25 guns, of which one gun has been recovered.

A researcher for the Institute of Public Opinion in Montreal says 64 of every 100 families in Canada collect trading stamps. He says 77 of every 100 Montreal families collect them.

For all 1963, bad second quarter and all, the deficit was $3.3 billion. Money sent abroad by government and private sources exceeded incoming money by that amount. The deficit, disturbing though it was, still was smaller than in several previous years.

The figures the government is preparing are for the second quarter of 1964. The jump in the deficit will compare sadly with the first quarter results when it dropped to an annual rate of $724 million.

The deficit usually is smaller in the first part of the year. This year there were some added and transient factors: sale of wheat to the Russians, and a spurt of incoming capital for short-term investments here.

The big jump in the outflow of dollars from April through June is laid to many things.

The general increase in U.S. prosperity meant more imports. For several years the United States has had a comfortable surplus of exports over imports. This has helped hold down the deficit caused by the outflow of dollars for other things such as foreign aid, travel, private investment abroad, military bases over seas.

Recently the rise in import volume has cut down this surplus a bit, and hence added to the deficit.

The U.S. Treasury now is reported seeking to renew its arrangement with the International Monetary Fund, which otherwise would expire Wednesday, to borrow up to $500 million in foreign currencies. These can be used if and when any other nation might seek to present dollars for U.S. gold. They would be given their own currencies instead.

The deficit to be announced soon—and rumored to range anywhere from $1.5 billion to $2.5 billion on an annual rate—won't be pleasant news. It needn't be upsetting if all the international monetary stabilization pacts and standby credits work.

India's New First Lady Avoids Spotlight

By Rangaswamy Satakopan
NEW DELHIA (AP) — The first lady of India neither knows what that title means nor cares. She wants only to be left alone to cook for her family, watch her husband's health and pray six hours a day.

This is the 53-year-old wife of India's new prime minister, Lal Bahadur Shastri. There is none of the Nehru family glamor or worldliness about this woman, no lust for the spotlight, no passion—or even understanding—for politics.

Shastri's wife (in Hindu tradition she uses her given name and thus is "Mrs. Lalita") is typical of millions of Indian housewives who care nothing for the world that swirls around them and who live only for their families and religion.

Worries About Husband
When the capital buzzed recently with talk about a visit by First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan of the Soviet Union, Mrs. Lalita vaguely recalled her husband had asked her to attend a luncheon given for "some Russian."

But, she told a newsman, she didn't want to go and was concerned only that "Shastriji" (Shastri) would eat some spicy food "that would be bad for his heart."

This tiny, gray-haired woman has endured much for her husband's career.

For years, as Shastri struggled against British colonial rule and often went to jail, she cared for their family without complaint. During one of his stays in jail, she watched a year-old daughter die of typhoid because she could not afford a doctor.

Since then, her family of four sons and two daughters and her favorite deity, Shiva, the god of destruction, have been her life. At the age of 9 she became so devoted to a small idol of Shiva in her village temple that she decided to sit in the temple and go into a trance repeating the god's name. But fearing her parent's wrath, she took the idol to her house and has kept it ever since.

Knew What To Do
When Shastri had a heart attack in 1959, she knew what to do:

COOKS FOR ALL — Mrs. Lalita, the prime minister's wife, prepares meal for entire family, including office help and servants.

"I woke up the secretaries to summon the doctors and my daughter to be by his bedside and went straight to the prayer room to talk it out with my God."

"I cried, 'I am mad, my Lord, I am mad. Is it your will, my Lord, this should happen to me and my family?'"

"I posed the question again and again as my husband lay in the hospital unconscious, with the doctors struggling to keep him alive."

"But my fight was with the supreme doctor of them all, and He answered. My husband survived and more years of service were added to his life."

Tears trickled down her cheeks as she remembered those days and nights of misery.

Unique Answer
When her husband became famous and powerful, she had a unique answer for relatives who wanted her to use influence to get them jobs.

She would point to the prayer room in the house and say: "Go to my God and pray and He knows better than my husband what he should do to you. The God that feeds the child in the womb, does He not know what He should do for you?"

The prime minister, always busy with the problems of a nation, was asked to sum up in one sentence what he owed his wife. He thought for a minute and said: "I never had a family problem all my life." He added: "I come in like one of the sons, eat and I go away and do not know what happens. This gave me time to devote all my energy to Gandhi and then to Nehru, the two hard taskmasters."

Does Shastri ever get angry with his wife? Yes. When she gets up at 2 a.m. to bathe in ice-cold water—even in winter—and begins her prayers.

"Does God believe in quantitative prayer that you should pray for so long?" he once asked her. "Do you know what it would mean if you fall ill?"

"But six hours from 2 a.m. is the only time I can be near God before the family wakes up and He knows how to keep me well," she replied.

Shastri gave up. "I should have known there is no use of arguing with you," he said.

Feeds All
The First Lady insists on cooking for the entire family, which numbers 22 with sons, daughters, and grandchildren all living in the same house. Guests come and the ranks swell and she even feeds Shastri's secretaries and servants.

"Don't they all belong to one family?" she asks. "If they are happy they give out their best." The house always is full and it often is difficult to determine who is a member of the family, who is an office worker or servant.

Mrs. Lalita, daughter of an impoverished school inspector, married Shastri when she was 17. He was six years her senior. Like many Indian women, she had no opportunity for advanced education or sophisticated experiences that would prepare her to be First Lady to a nation of 465 million.

So, dressed as usual in a sari, she tends to her kitchen and lets her husband face the public footlights.

Damage Is Put At $1 Million In Farm Blaze

BUTLER, Pa. (AP)—A $1 million damage estimate has been figured on a fire that swept the Butler County Mushroom Farm, one of the largest operations of its kind in the world.

The estimate was made Monday by Elmer C. Bennett, president of the firm which operates the farm 10 miles south of Butler.

The blaze, which broke out late Sunday and destroyed 17 of 20 mushroom growing houses, was believed caused by an electrical short circuit, fire officials said.

PARISIANS VISIT PARIS

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — "We are tourists in Paris," the two Parisians said. And they proceeded to take lots of pictures. The two were representatives of Gaumont Actualities of Paris, France, and they were filming a sequence for television about Paris, U.S.A.

They photographed Stoner Creek here (to compare it with the Seine) and said they would like to visit "Le A&P" supermarket.

They left here for Paris, Tenn., and planned to continue on to Paris, Tex.

Stan Laurel Seriously Ill

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Stan Laurel, 73, the surviving member of the all-time great comedy team of Laurel and Hardy, lies ill today in a hospital from a diabetic attack.

He has been there since last Thursday—and no one is supposed to know about it. But somehow, 1,000 letters a day have come to the hospital from Laurel and Hardy aficionados. "Stanley is amazed that people are so concerned," said a close friend. "Every nurse and doctor in the hospital finds some excuse to come in his room, just to talk with him. It's amazing, the love his fans have for this great comedian."

West Valley Baptist Hospital in nearby Encino won't even admit that the English-born comedian is a patient.

"We have no one here by that name," hospital attendants say tersely.

But Laurel himself, via the close friend, leaked the word so that he could publicly thank the thousands who have written him.

"I don't know how people found out," the friend quoted Laurel, "but tell them all thanks."

In their prime, Laurel and Hardy had a fan club in Europe that numbered more than two million members. His former partner, Oliver Hardy, died in 1957.

Ben Bella's Enemies Flee; Dictator Tightens Grip

ALGIERS (AP)—Most of President Ahmed Ben Bella's enemies are in full retreat, and every new move against him seems only to tighten his one-man rule over Algeria.

Everywhere except in the Kabylie Mountains, the loyal national army is in full control. Rebel leaders are being picked up one by one or are fleeing into exile. All legal political opposition to Ben Bella's "Socialist revolution" is silenced.

Even in the Kabylie there is evidence that the traditionally rebellious Berber tribesmen, weary of almost 10 years of continuous guerrilla warfare, are wavering in their allegiance to insurgent leader Hocine Ait Ahmed.

Ben Bella's popularity appears to be declining everywhere as his pseudo-Marxist policies help to plunge the nation ever deeper into economic crisis. But for the moment there is no trace of widespread popular revolt or of sympathy for fugitive rebels still calling for a general uprising. Nor is there any sign of disaffection in the army, the mainstay of Ben Bella's regime.

Although he is beset by towering economic problems, Ben Bella has emerged strengthened from every clash with his hopelessly divided opponents.

Col. Mohamed Chaabani, who tried to stir the Sahara against Ben Bella, was betrayed by the same population that helped him for eight years to elude the French. His arrest roused not a stir of sympathy.

Maj. Ben Ahmed Moussa, who started a guerrilla campaign in the Oran area, was picked up in the same way. Several persons are under death sentences or awaiting trial for attacks on police and officials of the ruling National Liberation Front-FLN.

Col. Mohand Ou El Hadj, once commander of Ait Ahmed's guerrillas, has switched to the government cause and is raising a loyal militia in the heart of the Kabylie.

Mohamed Khider, former secretary-general of the FLN, fled abroad with more than a million dollars of party funds. He claimed he wanted the money used to help unseat Ben Bella, but the government propaganda machine seems to have succeeded in discrediting his motives.

Western diplomats are convinced that if the rebels succeeded Algeria would collapse into chaos and anarchy. The Western powers have quietly fallen in line with the Soviet Union in doing all they can to bolster the Ben Bella regime.

"It often sticks in our throats, but we don't have any choice," the one Western ambassador commented.

Little Chance Seen Of District Session

HARRISBURG (AP) — Officials of the Scranton administration see little chance of the governor calling a special session of the legislature this year to realign the House and Senate.

"I don't see how he could do it until we get some decision from the U.S. Supreme Court on the reapportionment act we passed in 1963," George I. Bloom, secretary of state, declared Monday.

Bloom said Scranton himself was "rather surprised" at reports saying he would be asked to call a special session in the wake of the nomination of U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater as the Republican presidential nominee.

At the same time, Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandrini told newsmen he could only conclude that "the case will not be decided by the Supreme Court until the end of the year and that the machinery for this November's elections must go forward."

Both Bloom and Alessandrini were among the many state officials to meet with Scranton in a busy day of briefings before the governor took off for a two-week vacation scheduled in the mountains of New York State with his family.

"Gov. Scranton wondered how the whole thing got started," declared Bloom, referring to the report over the weekend that some legislative leaders, including Senate President Pro Tempore M. Harvey Taylor, want the governor to call a reapportionment session to head off the possibility of the Democrats doing it in January should the GOP lose control of the two chambers.

"He gave no indication he was thinking of such a move," said Bloom. "And frankly I can't see how the state could gamble on calling a special session before the Supreme Court hands down its ruling. They may decide something entirely different in our case and then where would we be?"

recting the national presidential campaign.

One of the main beneficiaries of such a move would be Taylor, because another reapportionment act presumably would nullify last April's primary election. Taylor was upset in that election, by a political unknown, William B. Lentz of Millersburg.

Meanwhile there has been no indication when a ruling will come from the Supreme Court on the 1963 act.

The case was turned over to the high court on an appeal by the state after a three-judge federal court ruled the 1963 act, based on Pennsylvania's constitution, in violation of the 14th amendment of the federal constitution, guaranteeing equal representation.

Aside from reapportionment, Bloom said Scranton spent most of the time in his talks with state officials reminiscing over the convention in which he lost the GOP presidential nomination.

Martin H. Brackbill, state budget secretary, said he and the governor discussed Project 70, Pennsylvania's newly enacted "open space" recreation program.

The plan passed this year, authorizes the state to sell up to $70 million in bonds for purchase of land for the Department of Forests and Waters, and the State Fish and Game Commissions.

BRUNO A. CALLA

Bruno Albert Calla, 48, of 621 Prospect St., was taken to Warren General Hospital by the North Warren Fire Department ambulance about 4:45 p.m. Monday, after he collapsed on Pennsylvania Ave. east near Carver St. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital following examination by Dr. J. F. Crane.

Mr. Calla was born in Johnsbury on Oct. 24, 1915, and was a veteran of Army service during World War II. He came here from Johnsbury 12 years ago and had been employed for the last two years as custodian at Irvinedale Elementary School in Glade Township.

He was a member of Holy Redeemer parish of Warren, also of Johnsbury Lodge 210, Sons of Italy. He had been actively identified with the Boy Scout movement and had managed a number of baseball teams.

Surviving are his wife, Delores Feronti Calla, and two children, Richard and Linda, at home; his parents, Frank Calla of Johnsbury and Mrs. Concetta Maggi of Santa Monica, Calif.; also four brothers and two sisters, Mrs. Patsy Nocito, James, Angelo and Joseph Calla, Johnsbury; Jane Calla, in Virginia; and John Calla, in Connecticut.

The funeral service will be conducted in Holy Redeemer Church at 9 a.m. Friday, the Rev. Joseph Seyboldt celebrating the Requiem Mass. Burial will follow in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

CLIFTON M. GEER

Clifton M. Geer, 79, of 481 Front St., Jamestown, N. Y., died Sunday evening, July 19, 1964, in Jamestown General Hospital following a long illness. President of Geer-Dunn, Inc. and a Jamestown merchant for more than 50 years, he was a brother of Bert L. Geer, of Warren, and an uncle of Mrs. Robert Jones of Sheffield.

The funeral service will be conducted in Jamestown at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, followed by burial in Sunset Hill Cemetery.

the county, he contended.

But Heron had harsh words for the subcommittee's counterpart in the Senate. He insisted that the Senate subcommittee has failed the Senecas by watering the House compensation in half. He charged that the Senate subcommittee is "loaded with lawmakers unsympathetic to the Seneca cause" and accused this body of representing only a particular section of the county.

HERON ALSO attacked the officials of the Indian Claims Commission under the Johnson administration for its failure to deal with the problem decently.

Apparently the Senecas will not abandon their opposition to the Kinzua Dam unless the federal government yields to their demands. Heron said that the Senecas would give up the fight only if a feasible alternative did not exist, and he claimed that the rejected Conewango Reservoir Plan is this alternative. The Indians have said that they will refuse to move from their homes, which lie in the path of the reservoir slated for completion in 1965, unless the government gives them enough money to relocate.

THE RAMIFICATIONS of this project were also cited during the address. Heron pointed out the overwhelming editorial comment in the newspapers against "the shoddy treatment of the Senecas." In addition, he showed the rash of foreign criticism against the action of the U. S. government.

Heron concluded his remarks by rejecting the nation, as put forth in the book "The Vanishing American," that the days of the Indians' culture are numbered. Since the Senecas, like the other tribes, do not wish to be assimilated into the Caucasian culture completely and thus lose their identity, they want their own land. Heron stated that this is the basis for the Seneca opposition to the flooding of their lands.

"WE WILL resist this homogenization of our identity to the very end," he said.

Following his address, Heron presided over a series of Seneca dances, performed by members of the Allegheny Reservation. These ceremonies, including the Hoop Dance and the Tomahawk Dance, gave the audience a brief glimpse of the traditions that the Senecas are trying to preserve.

Directors of the Kinzua Reservoir Citizens Assn. plan to present a formal statement at the July 29 meeting of the Recreation Advisory Council in Washington, D. C. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has advised that the session has been called to determine what action will be taken as a result of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation report which recommends that the U. S. Forest Service administer recreational development at the Kinzua Dam and Reservoir. KRCA officials have long been fighting land acquisition policies of the U. S. Army Corps of Army Engineers.

down. Police reinforcements arrived.

Five persons, including two patrolmen were injured, in the battle. A mirror, bottles, light fixtures and bar stools were smashed. One Negro was arrested.

At about the same time, disorders broke out in the predominantly Negro Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn.

They started, police said, with a demonstration by about 100 members of CORE, who appeared calm and displayed no violence.

A crowd formed and after the demonstrators left some 300 to 400 persons surged through the streets. Bottles were thrown and a store window was smashed.

Several protective metal screens were torn from store fronts.

Police said no looting was reported.

In an hour or two police had broken up the crowd.

sons have moved, others have died, and according to the DA, those who have been imprisoned find it difficult to secure the necessary funds. Still others, Bonavita noted, are paying non-support or on the public relief rolls.

Some of the cases now delinquent appear to be typical of the indifference to fines and costs imposed by the court by the individuals sentenced to pay. Since 1960, a Warren man has owed $145.20; two men in Chandlers Valley owe a total of $128.67 on three different charges; a drunken driver still owes the county $104 since 1963 and another $178.50 since 1961.

A PITTSFIELD man has $178.50 on the books since 1961 and a Titusville woman involved in the theft of a car in 1958 still owes $77.76. In 1952 a guest at the Exchange Hotel, arrested for cheating by fraudulent pretense, was ordered to pay $246.12 in fines and costs. The amount is still owing the county.

In another instance, a local man in 1960 was given six months to pay fines and costs. His last payment was made in 1962 and he still owes the county $34.50. There are almost 130 such persons listed as currently owing fines and costs to Warren County. The amounts vary as do the number of offenses and the type. Some make an honest effort to make small, regular payments, others obviously ignore the situation.

The Times-Mirror has refrained from publishing the list of delinquent accounts until such time as it is official and up-to-date.

Metro Teconchuk and Wayne Watt will serve as grounds superintendents. Those interested in entering commercial exhibits should contact Teconchuk as soon as possible, and garden clubs with entries should contact Mrs. Rhodes.

Final arrangements for the fair will be made Aug. 11 by the fair board, committee chairmen and workers at a meeting at Island Park.

ANGRY MAN KILLS LIONESS

WINDHOEK, South West Africa (AP) — A young South African railwayman was so enraged when a lioness bit off his arm during a hunt near here that he ignored his injury to shoot it dead. "There wasn't time to get frightened," he said later.

Twenty-five-year-old Jan Louis de Beer, a railway electrician, went hunting with some friends. They tracked down a pride of lions which had been marauding in the area. De Beer wounded a lioness in the leg. The party was following it when it suddenly charged. None of the men could shoot for fear of hitting one another.

The lioness knocked over De Beer and bit off his arm near the elbow. The other men fired at the lioness while it was on top of him. One of the bullets hit De Beer higher up in his wounded arm.

Reporter Finds Boy Scouting Is Strictly for the Youngsters

By LEE LINDER

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Maybe I'm out of shape and short of breath, but it's easier to report about a march through the woods than to go on one.

Monday I lived with Boy Scout Troop 60 from Chicago at the Sixth National Jamboree in historic Valley Forge—eating, hiking, showering, and watching the fun-loving boys wash the pots and pans and clean up the camp. In regulation uniform, too: short pants and all.

Sure, you get out in the nice fresh air—and a steamy, hot day it was, with the mercury climbing to near 100 in the sun.

Sure, you get exposed to lots of sunburn and end up with blisters on the feet.

Truly, the week-long Jamboree that ends Thursday is for the kids, like the 34 I was with and their three dedicated leaders headed by Scoutmaster Russell Villwock who, a grandfather at 46, says "Scouting is a wonderful thing."

Reveille was at 7 sharp. The bugle call over the loudspeaker was loud and clear even with cotton stuffed in the ears to keep beetles and other bugs out. An air mattress on the hard, dusty ground can be soft and very comfortable—if it has no punctures. And if you don't roll off.

Breakfast was apple juice, dry cereal, French toast, milk and cocoa. The toast was a little soggy on one side and slightly overdone on the other.

The hike was five miles a four hours all around the 1,900-acre campsite, up and down the hills that seemed like mountains, looking into the log cabin where George Washington colonial soldiers spent the winter of 1777-78. We had a sandwich lunch on the trail.

Assistant Scoutmaster Jose Finizio presided over dinner. One of the chefs was Rod Ogawa, 13, who said "Cooking O.K. Sometimes."

He served beef stew out of a can, lima beans out of a can, milk chocolate pudding out of a package. It was hot; it was delicious; there was plenty.

I was seated in the middle of the table and spent more time passing bread and butter and milk and salt and pepper to the right and left than eating.

"Why do you think I sit on the end?" asked a Scout grinning under his crew cut and headset.

Steve Alexander, 15, helped set the table and stir the stew and mix the pudding. He forgot to put out drinking cups.

"We're slow," he said. "You have to wait for quality."

The troop, from Chicago North Side, was as well mixed as the stew. There was one of Chinese descent, six Japanese, seven Greeks, one Turk. Two guests were from the Panama Canal Zone. A Negro from another Chicago troop, Warren Williams, 15, came over in a mealtime swap.

After dinner the troop marched a mile to join 7,200 Scouts from Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio in a giant campfire.

I chickened out and drove the outdoor arena. Who has the most energy?

An AP News Analysis

Reds Using Anniversary of Geneva Pact To Stir Up Trouble in Viet Nam District

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

Ten years ago today France reluctantly signed a Geneva accord cutting Viet Nam in half. The Communist North is using the anniversary to steam up a drive apparently aimed at forcing the Indochina question once again to a Geneva conference table.

The anniversary finds South Viet Nam in military and political trouble and the Communist North struggling with harsh economic woes. But the Communists, tutored by the Red Chinese, also appear to see an advantage to be seized from the presidential election campaign in the United States.

A Communist propaganda campaign keyed to the anniversary seems to herald a significantly increased Red effort to make things hot for the Americans and the South Viet Nam regime of Premier Nguyen Khana. The idea seems to be that however the Americans react—either by bowing to pressure for negotiation or by carrying the war to North Viet Nam—the impact will be felt in the U.S. elections and add to U.S. confusion.

The North Vietnamese are being exhorted to mark the anniversary with greater labor efforts. To celebrate the date, the Northerners have been dragooned into a "one man labors as two" campaign to step up production, principally of food.

The Northerners have been told that only increased production can promise an end to austerity and the guerrilla war in the South. The North always has depended on the fertile South to make up a rice deficit, and today's cry for reunification of Viet Nam has special meaning in Hanoi in the North.

Therefore, the pressure in Indochina promises to increase sharply. The Southern regime claims regular North Vietnamese forces have moved into South Viet Nam border provinces to fight alongside guerrilla units of Communist Viet Cong.

In Laos, the Communists seem intent on stepping up the pressure on the U.S.-supported neutralist government.

All this might point to an attempt to seek a showdown at a time—during an election campaign—which is awkward for the United States.

A presidential background to all this is for a new 14-nation

Geneva conference. The Red Chinese would like to see South Viet Nam neutralized and the Americans out, though it is unlikely the Communists ever would agree to neutralize North Viet Nam.

Ten years ago, France threw in the towel in Indochina. Now President Charles de Gaulle's government wants the Geneva conference reconvened to consider a guaranteed neutrality for all Indochina—Laos, Cambodia and the Viet Nams. De Gaulle contends any lasting settlement must take into consideration the incontrovertible fact of massive China and her interests.

France achieved a settlement 10 years ago by agreeing to talk with her adversaries in Indochina. But the Communists had left hordes of their own cadres in South Viet Nam. The settlement lasted only until they were ready to mount an offensive to take the whole country.

Theoretically, Viet Nam was only temporarily divided at the 17th Parallel. There were to be elections eventually to unify the nation. Laos was to be sovereign, with the Communist Pathet Lao retaining pockets near the North Viet Nam border temporarily, pending a Laotian national coalition.

Washington contends few of the provisions were observed and that thus a new Geneva conference would be pointless, unless it could produce an iron-clad guarantee that the Communists would leave their neighbors in peace.

If the Communists feel this is an opportune moment, one can expect a burgeoning offensive which could face Washington with an embarrassing election-measures which could spread the war or agreement to a new conference.

Auto Accident Causes Fatal Heart Attack

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A New York City man died from heart failure Monday as a result of being involved in a one-car accident two miles east of New Salem.

Fayette County Coroner Dr. W. Ralston McGee attributed the death of Jeremiah Cronin Sr., 54, of Queens to shock due to excitement caused by the accident.

State police said the car swerved to avoid an unidentified object on Route 112 and struck an embankment.

Driver of the car, Francis J. Salutric, 24, of Washington, D. C., and Cronin's son, Jeremiah Jr., 24, of Long Island, N. Y., were treated at a hospital and released.

Lack of Funds May Force Schools To Give Up Fight on Bible Ban

LEBANON, Pa. (AP) — The Cornwall-Lebanon Suburban Joint School Board says a lack of funds could force it to give up its court battle to make the Bible a literary study course.

"If the people in this community want us to continue the fight, then they are going to have to come forward and support it financially," Robert S. Lux, chairman of the board, declared Monday night at a board meeting.

"Unless this is done," he added, "the district may have to drop the defense and forego introduction of a Bible study course this fall."

Only two people attended the meeting—Mr. and Mrs. James N. Snavely of North Lebanon Twp., who filed suit against the board in an effort to halt the use of the Bible in its schools.

The board also voted to await a written directive from U.S. District Court before taking any further action in its efforts to make the Bible a part of its curriculum.

Lux told his fellow board members that attorneys' fees so far in defending against the Snavely suit amount to $5,000.

The intention of the district was to meet these expenses through a Bible study fund made up of money contributed by interested citizens. The fund presently contains only $1,100, Lux said.

The chairman also said a directive is expected "very soon" from Federal Judge Frederick V. Follmer of Lewisburg, Follmer withheld action last week in the case until at least the start of the new school term, pending completion of the proposed study program.

The Snavelys claim the proposed course is nothing but a "subterfuge" on the part of the school district to get around a U.S. Supreme Court ruling last year banning required Bible reading and prayer in public schools.

Lux said the school district already has submitted materials on its proposed study course to the Department of Public Instruction and will formally ask for approval upon receipt of the letter from Judge Follmer.

An official of DPI said last week the school district had not yet asked for state approval.

The Snavelys charge that two of their children—Victoria, 10, and Eric, 6—were forced to listen to readings from the Bible at the Ebenezer Elementary School in violation of the Supreme Court ruling.

would satisfy representatives of all the 20 nations.

The conference was called at Venezuela's request to consider punitive action against Cuba for Castro's efforts to overthrow the Venezuelan government.

The charges of aggression were based on the finding of a three-ton cache of arms which Venezuela said was secretly landed on its coast last fall by Cuba to supply pro-Communist guerrillas. The finding was confirmed by an OAS investigating committee.

An ambassadorial commission prepared three resolutions, considered as working papers, for the foreign ministers conference.

States and Cuba.

It also would call for the suspension of all maritime communication between member states and Cuba.

The resolution then would recommend—but would not require—a break in diplomatic and consular relations by member states.

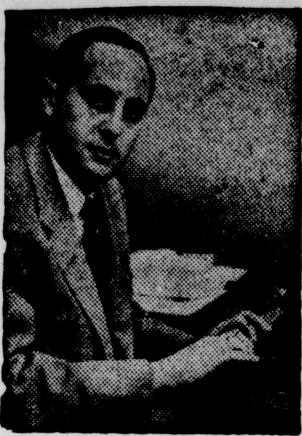

It further would recommend the suspension of all air communications with Cuba.

A Touch of Innsbruck

LOS ANGELES — When the convention chairman, the Senator from Kentucky, took the gavel, the band played "My Old Kentucky Home," and, immediately, you had a vision of paying $30 for a $10 hotel room.

You said to yourself that he had a lot of nerve attacking the Administration's economy when he hadn't yet done anything about Louisville on Derby Week.

Churchill Downs or Cow Palace, the setting at least is appropriate for the show.

The Republicans introduced a touch of Innsbruck to the convention floor. The cops started whisking away reporters. The last words of a guy from NBC were "... This is John So-and-So, reporting from somewhere in custody."

In Innsbruck, they swooped down on a man writing his story in the press room. When he refused to leave, on the ground that he belonged where he was, the constabulary picked him up, chair and all, and carted him off.

Last seen, he was leaving the building in that posture, with his portable on his lap.

The Goldwaters shouldn't merely escort writers from the premises. They should do a job on them. When Ike put the knock on columnists and commentators, the convention hall vibrated with cheers.

Mad About 'The' Bat

If Barry gets elected, every columnist is bound to deny his occupation. My alibi is ready. I was a humble soldier, carrying out the orders of my leaders.

It remained for a Hall of Famer, Jackie Robinson, to toss in a casual thought the other night. All Jackie said was that the convention was rigged.

That was for openers.

One of the Lodges charged that the Goldwaters had cut the communication wires of the Scrantons. An assertion like this hadn't been heard since the Rams accused George Halas of tapping their field telephones in Chicago.

Then a delegation of Texas Goldwaters found an intruder eavesdropping on their caucus and they threw him out. Chances are they were still upset from an incident the day before when a San Francisco pitcher picked up a bat of Houston infielder Nellie Fox and broke it willfully.

One Houston owner is said to have an income of $500,000 a month. His wealth is staggering. Others in the organization have millions, too.

They demanded and got $3.98 from the Giants for the broken bat.

Ike Forgot His Cart

Another familiar sports face turned up at the speaker's rostrum in San Francisco. It belonged to Bud Wilkinson, of Oklahoma. A former football coach and a former Democrat, he is today a senatorial candidate and a Republican.

It's a drastic transformation, like going, say, from the single wing to the split T.

We noticed while Wilkinson was hacking through his speech that people milled about restlessly in the aisles. Others talked and paid only casual attention.

You felt sorry for Bud and thought to yourself that if these were his players and they comported themselves similarly while he was laying out the offense, a lot of guys would be taking laps around the Cow Palace.

"... We Republicans will sweep to victory in November," Bud concluded dramatically.

You wondered whether they would do it with ball control or something even more conservative in which they kicked on second down.

To some observers, it was surprising that Gen. Eisenhower walked to the rostrum. You looked for him to use a cart. Not even Arnold Palmer could stay in the middle of the fairway as Ike did the other night. It was hardly like the time he teed off at Eldorado in Palm Springs and sliced his drive. It hit a grapefruit tree, knocking several pieces of fruit to the ground.

He stood for a moment in disbelief, then remarked tartly: "Well, I've been starting with grapefruit in the morning for years."

The way things have gone with the Republicans in San Francisco, they may as well have held their convention at Candlestick Park.

Over there, things blow towards right even more than they have at the Cow Palace.

1 Boy Places in Jr. Golf Match

Only one local youngster placed in yesterday afternoon's sweltering heat in a junior golf match at the Corry Country Club. Chuck Schmidt fired third low gross, a 78, five strokes behind the top shooter of the day, Bill Masler of the home club.

Fourteen boys from Conewango Valley Country Club participated in the tournament. The junior golfers will next be in action at Moonbrook Country Club Aug. 10.

of the seventh inning, the Hospital team loaded the bases with no outs. Two singled and a lengthy argument followed before the Mets got out of the inning and the game.

The win left the Mets undefeated in second half competition in the league with a 5-0 slate. The loss evened the Hospital's record at 2-2.

The game was close throughout. The losers took a 2-1 lead at the end of the first, Mets a 3-2 lead in the top of the second, only to see the losers tie the score at the end of the inning. The Mets fell behind in the third only to come back with two in the fourth, one in the fifth and three in the seventh.

State Hospital got nine hits off winner Don Mahaffey, all singles. The Mets got 12 hits off loser Ray Brewster, including doubles by Roger and John Colvin and Sonny Smoulder. The game was a make-up tilt.

The boys, from Denstone College in the English midlands, range in age from 15 to 19. The previous relay time of 14 hours, 57 minutes was set by a team from Folkestone 10 years ago.

The team swam from France to England. The fastest Channel swim is the 10 hours, 23 minutes set by Danish-born Helge Jensen on an England-France crossing in 1960.

feated City Ice and Beverage, 6-2, while Struthers Hose edged Betts Machine, 4-3, in a double-header at John Carbon Memorial Playground in City Softball League action.

A four-run third inning gave Tomassoni's the victory over the Icemen breaking a 2-2 tie. A double by winning pitcher Jim McMeans provided two of the four runs in the big inning.

And it was a three-run fourth inning for Struthers which provided them with the winning margin over Betts, winners of the first half in the City League. Don Baldensperger, Dick White and Don McKelvey belted three doubles in a row coupled with Wink Rickerson's single for the runs.

Phils, Giants Lose; Red 2½ Out

NL Race Growing Tighter

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Since Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson made his poignant "man upstairs" statement at the All-Star Game two weeks ago, the Reds have established themselves as legitimate contenders by trimming four games off their deficit and moving to within 2½ games of the front-runners.

The Reds, who won the 1961 pennant scramble, tightened up this year's race again Monday by knocking off the first-place Philadelphia Phillies 6-2 for their seventh victory in the last nine games while the second-place San Francisco Giants lost to the Chicago Cubs 6-4.

The Reds have been on the move, taking advantage of slumps by the Phillies and Giants, ever since Hutchinson spiked a rumor that he was resigning. The tall, stoop-shouldered manager, battling cancer, said at the time:

"I'll quit only if they fire me or if the man upstairs tells me."

The Reds' latest victory handed the Phillies their third loss in four games and ninth in the last 12. The Phillies, however, remained three percentage points ahead of the Giants, who now have lost six of their last eight.

Only one other game was scheduled in the National League. In that, the Houston Colts whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1, dropping the defending world champions below the .500 mark again.

The Phillies led 2-0 when Cincinnati began to battle back. Tommy Harper's two-run homer in the fifth off Dennis Bennett tied, then the Reds broke through in the sixth for the clinching runs on a walk to Don Pavletich, Leo Cardenas' double and a triple by Steve Boros. Pavletich wrapped it up with a two-run eighth inning homer.

Joe Nuxhall started for Cincinnati and paved the way for both Philadelphia runs walks by issuing walks to Cookie Rojas. Rojas scored in the first on a sacrifice fly by Tony Taylor following a wild pickoff attempt by Nuxhall and came around in the fifth on singles by Johnny Callison and Taylor.

Despite a strong performance, Nuxhall wasn't around at the end because of strong words to Umpire Mel Steiner on a pitch to Bobby Wine in the eighth inning. Billy McCool came on after Nuxhall was ejected and preserved his eighth victory against four losses.

The Giants scored three runs in the fifth inning on consecutive homers by Orlando Cepeda and Del Crandall and went into ninth holding a 4-2 edge over the Cubs.

When Doug Clemens reached base on Hall Lanier's error and Billy Williams beat out an infield hit, Bob Shaw replaced Bob Bolin on the mound—and was immediately tagged for a three-run homer by Ron Santo that won it for the Cubs.

The Colts scored all their runs in the fourth inning on a triple by Joe Gaines, singles by Mike White and Bob Lillis, a walk and Jerry Grote's bases-clearing double. The Dodgers only run came in the seventh on singles by Tommy Davis and Wally Moon and a sacrifice fly by Nate Oliver.

Sox Moving in on Birds; Tigers Whip Bosox, 7-5

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Little Don Buford is growing into his White Sox almost as fast as the patched-up Chicagoans are growing on the American League.

Buford, a pre-season Rookie-of-the-Year candidate who fizzled during the early going, continued his recent surge Monday night, driving in four runs with a homer, triple and single as the streaking Sox shelled the Los Angeles Angels 9-0 and climbed to within one-half game of the league lead.

Dick McAuliffe's two-run homer and Don Wert's tie-breaking single carried Detroit to a 7-5 victory over Boston in the only other AL game scheduled.

The White Sox' victory was their fifth straight and ninth in the last 11 games. They trail first place Baltimore by four percentage points.

Chicago Murder to AL, But Can't Beat Yanks

By JOE MOOSHIL

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—So the Chicago White Sox can't beat the New York Yankees. So what?

That's not the way Manager Al Lopez of the White Sox looks at things but that's the way it is.

Twice in hand-to-hand combat with the Yankees, the White Sox were considered dead, losing a five-game series and then a four-game series and 10 straight in all to the Yankees.

Yet the upstart Chicagoans not only have bounced back but find themselves in second place in the American League race, one game ahead of the Yankees and one-half game behind league-leading Baltimore.

Not counting Baltimore short, can the Sox lose all 18 games to New York and still win the pennant?

"That's a stupid question with baseball being what it is," said Lopez. "Anything can happen in this game. We've lost to the Yankees and practically murdered the rest of the league. Sure, it's possible to lose all 18 to them and still win the pennant but that would be the hard way to do it."

Buford, a 5-foot-8, 175-pound infielder up from Indianapolis, has hit at a .375 clip during the current Chicago spurt, raising his batting average 23 points to .263. The 27-year-old speedster, under the .200 mark until early in June, has hit safely in 10 of his last 11 games, with two homers, a triple and four doubles.

His three hits Monday supported rookie right-hander Fred Talbot, who evened his record at 3-3 and lowered his earned run average to a sparkling 2.16. Talbot scattered nine hits enroute to his second shutout.

Bill Skowron, recently acquired from Washington, and Pete Ward each chipped in with two hits and Tom McCraw drove in three runs as Chicago halted the Angels' six-game winning string.

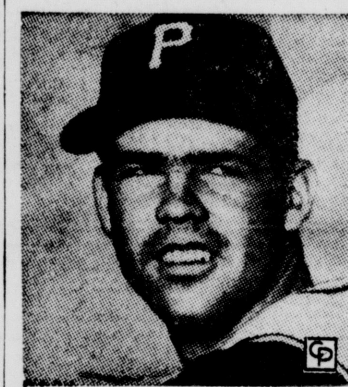

The White Sox now have won 35 and lost 24 against eight AL clubs for a .696 percentage, but have lost 10 of 10 to the New York Yankees, who they head by one game in the standings.

McAuliffe's 17th home run, in the eighth inning, pulled Detroit even at 5-5 before Wert doubled home Bill Freehan, who had singled, with the deciding run.

Red Sox Manager Johnny Pesky was ejected for disputing the call on a two-run homer by the Tigers' George Thomas in the seventh.

Center fielder Thomas made an unassisted double play in the first inning, grabbing a line drive and running to second to retire baserunner Tony Conigliaro, who had fallen on the baseline.

BOB BAILEY

Buc Infield Short with Bailey Out

ST. LOUIS (P)—The St. Louis Cardinals will try to knock the Pittsburgh Pirates from their too-hold on fifth place in the National League tonight.

The Bucs, six games off the pace, held a one percentage point lead over the Cardinals.

Gene Freese will fill the third place slot in place of Pittsburgh's Bob Bailey who is under league suspension.

The league fined Bailey $50 Monday and suspended him Monday and today for what National League President Warren Giles termed a "bumping incident" with umpire Ed Vargo.

The incident occurred in Sunday's second Pittsburgh-Milwaukee game at Milwaukee. Pirate coach Frank Ocek was fined $100 as a result of the same incident.

The suspension will leave the Pirates with three regular infielders out of action. First baseman Willie Stargell and shortstop Dick Scofield are out of the lineup with injuries.

The bumping incident came after Bailey attempted to steal home with the tying run and was tagged out by Milwaukee catcher Ed Bailey. Bob Bailey, the Pirates maintain, accidentally bumped into Vargo as he was getting to his feet after sliding home.

Giles, in suspending Bailey, said he was limiting the sentence "to the minimum because this is the first report of any misconduct on his part" since coming into the league last year.

Danny Murtaugh will send Joe Gibbon (6-3) to the mound against St. Louis' Ray Sadecki (10-7).

Double Turned Homer Sends Pesky to Shower

BOSTON (AP)—When is a double not a double?

Simple. When the umpire calls it a home run.

That's the Red Sox version of a disputed home run, or was it a double Monday night which:

1. Launched a Detroit comeback toward a 7-5 victory over Boston and enabled the Tigers to vault over Los Angeles into fifth place in the American League.

2. Got Manager Johnny Pesky tossed out of the game.

3. Capped a wild night for Detroit center fielder George Thomas.

Thomas' two-run homer struck the top, front edge or facing of the left field wall in the seventh inning, bounced high in the air and fell back on the field.

Third base umpire Bill Haller held up Thomas at second, apparently ruling a double. The Detroit bench was fit to be tied. After consulting plate umpire Ed Hurley, the home run sign was given, the Sox flew into a rage and Pesky was banished.

Dick McAuliffe tied the score with a two-run homer in the eighth. Bill Freehan singled and Don Wert doubled him home with the winning run. A suicide squeeze bunt provided an insurance score off reliever Dick Radatz in the ninth.

The Fenway Park ground rules say that a ball hitting the bevel of the wall between the left field foul line and the flag pole in left center, then bouncing onto or out of the field, is a double.

Thomas also had two singles and turned in a rare, unassisted double play by an outfielder when he caught a Lee Thomas line drive.

Sports Boosters Plan Meeting Thursday at Y

The Warren Sports Boosters will begin to reactivate for the coming football season with a meeting at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in the YMCA meeting rooms.

The coming year's activities will be the main topic of discussion. Projects under consideration include souvenir programs for all home football games, erection of the electric football scoreboard purchased by the club last year, the fall membership drive and election of officers.

All Sports Boosters and interested fans are urged to attend the meeting.

Only five holes-in-one were scored on the PGA tour this spring, through the U.S. Open.

Rip Engle's Far East Trip: Recruiting or Good Will?

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Word filters down from University Park, Pa., a suburb of the city of State College, that Rip Engle is off for Vietnam after having visited Hawaii, Okinawa, Japan and Korea.

Rip, if you've forgotten since New Year's Day, is the Penn State football coach. An assistant, Frank Patrick, has been on tour with him.

The trip, it says, is sponsored by the U.S. Army, which might lead to some conclusion jumping. Could be Rip and Frank decided if you can't beat 'em, join 'em. There's a morale building angle, too. Some of those films taken in Michie Stadium at West Point could make the Army look good even in Vietnam.

But when you find two football coaches taking such a "good will" tour, you're convinced the correct word must be "recruiting."

So it doesn't take a great stretch of imagination to reconstruct this scene on the plane as they head for home:

Instead of a first-run feature film, the screen in the cabin shows football players rushing hither and yon — especially yon. Engle pushes the stop and back-up buttons as he studies the moves of a sophomore quarterback. He shudders as a cadet wearing a coolie hat appears momentarily in the back-ground.

Patrick: "What do you think we accomplished, coach? I kinda liked that 300 pound Hawaiian guard but I'm not sure he can make the scholastic grade in turfgrass agronomy. We may have to get him a tutor."

Engle, snapping to attention: "Hawaiians, forget 'em. They're too complacent. We're going to concentrate on developing our Viet Cong infiltrators on defense. Won't that make Paul Dietzel look sick?"

Patrick: "Infiltrators?"
Engle: "Yeah, I signed them for scholarships at a prison camp while you were showing movies to the military advisors. If Dietzel thinks Chinese Bandits are mean and tough, he should see these guys. Why, one of 'em was caught picking up napalm bombs and throwing them back. It took three South Vietnam platoons and a top sergeant to capture it and they couldn't get me any substitutes."

Patrick: "I'm not worried about Dietzel, I hear the Pentagon told him to stop calling them Chinese — might offend somebody. They're just the Bandits now."

Engle: "Well, they could be Scandinavians and we'd still have a tough time beating 'em at West Point. Besides, we can't let Notre Dame get all the publicity with those Apache Indians. Ara Parseghian signed up. I hear he's calling them Geronimo's Irish Grandsons."

AND DON'T FORGET. DODGE'S NEW CAR WARRANTY IS THE ORIGINAL LP. IT LASTS 5 YEARS OR 50,000 MILES!

* HERE'S HOW DODGE'S 5-YEAR, 50,000-MILE WARRANTY PROTECTS YOU: Chrysler Corporation confidently warrants all of the following vital parts of its 1964 cars for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excepting manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings. REQUIRED MAINTENANCE: The following maintenance services are required under the warranty — change engine oil every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; replace oil filter every second oil change; clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 22

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — You may feel "just about able" to accomplish — not much more. Do what you can as well as possible, and appreciate even the smallest gains — your day will be happier than may imagine.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — Bow to the demands of present circumstances until you have time to really plan a new and more profitable course. But don't belittle "minor" gains; they could prove most enduring.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — Spend money thoughtfully, even if on vacation, or considering a long-planned purchase. There's a tendency to go overboard with assets now, so be careful!

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — It will not be as easy as it looks to arrange matters, get things moving or complete them. Your ready perception and intuition will help to make things less difficult, however.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — In making contracts, signing any papers, handling monies and in personal affairs generally, much can be achieved through accuracy, tact and timeliness.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Controversy may prove annoying. Yet here is where your outgoing, broad-minded self can shine. Emphasize pertinent points and keep minor issues in their place. Side-step squabbles.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — It would be helpful to consult with individuals who are highly placed, since they could pave the way for you. Approach them with tact, however.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 23 (Scorpio) — Improvement on all fronts should be your aim during this fine period. Be systematic in order to prevent last-minute rushes; DON'T burn the candle at both ends.

NOVEMBER 24 to DECEMBER 23 (Sagittarius) — With some discreet pushing from you, most things will turn out well. Look for new gains through an influential co-worker — plus your sound treatment of all matters.

DECEMBER 24 to JANUARY 23 (Capricorn) — Bypass the irrelevant and inconsequential. Consolidate smooth-working forces, but do not try to complete too much at once or drive too hard a bargain.

JANUARY 24 to FEBRUARY 23 (Aquarius) — Reduce tensions — you can for others as well as for yourself — and it will help all around. Rewards indicated for conscientious and constructive endeavors.

FEBRUARY 24 to MARCH 23 (Pisces) — Influences encouraging for substantial interests and projects. Bide your time where fast moves could undo effect of work already done commendably. Show your artistic side.

Four Jaycees From Warren At Meeting

Four local Jaycees attended the July board of directors meeting of the Pennsylvania Junior Chamber of Commerce, held at Gettysburg this past weekend.

PRESENT FROM Warren, among over 500 Jaycees from the Commonwealth, were Jack Downs, local president; Dick Waugh, national director; Jerry Leonard, state chairman of the mental health and retardation program; and Dave Swanson, state director.

Forums covering many of the statewide Jaycee projects were presented on Saturday to better acquaint members with the purposes and operation of these programs. Included were discussions on such projects as safe driving road-e-o's; mental health and retardation; local, state and national operations; Jaycee week; and youth and sports programs.

THE HIGHLIGHT of the meeting was an address by Dr. Robert E. Cooke, pediatrician-in-chief of the new $15 million pediatric center at John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. He spoke on mental health and retardation.

The state Jaycee recently adopted a program to improve public awareness and understanding of mental health and retardation.

The Warren Times - Mirror has complete coverage of all the news.

TODAY in WASHINGTON

— By The Associated Press —

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's 37 largest post offices, which account for 50 per cent of all mail, will soon be distributing outgoing parcels by zip code.

Monday's announcement by Postmaster General John A. Gronouski said the result should be speedier long-distance delivery, by one day or more, and less damage as a result of fewer handlings en route.

The announcement said post offices in Detroit, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago, Houston and Minneapolis are already sorting parcels by zip code.

The program will be extended this week to Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Oakland and Sacramento, Calif., Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore. Another 24 offices will be included by Sept. 1.

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Gullible administrators" of foreign aid paid $1,500,995 for $40,000 worth of old rags delivered to Iran as fine quality textiles, Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said Monday.

In a Senate speech, Williams said that someone seems to have been "extremely lax" in protecting the taxpayers' interests in connections with the fraud, which he said occurred in foreign aid shipments in 1958.

Williams identified Manoutchehr Aadal, who he said is an Iranian national in New York City, as the "key individual and the prime factor in this fraudulent transaction." He added that Treasury Department records showed Aadal's still unpaid "tax delinquency amounts to $464,234.03" for the years 1958-60.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to permit more retired regular military officers to take government civilian jobs without losing much of their retirement pay was approved by the Senate Monday.

Sponsored by Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., the measure also removes old restrictions against civilians holding more than one part-time government job.

World News in Brief

GENEVA (AP)—The population implosion—the mass shift of people from the country to the city—threatens the world with serious overcrowding and health hazards, the World Health Organization says.

It predicted the influx from rural areas will increase as mechanization of agriculture reduces the farm population to only 10 per cent by the end of this century.

The committee of experts said the world population is expected to double by the year 2000 to more than six billion and called the drift to the cities "one of the crucial challenges of our time."

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—The chiefs of state of Pakistan, Iran and Turkey opened a conference today on closer economic cooperation of the Central Treaty Organization's three non-Arab Moslem members.

President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan and Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi of Iran were greeted Monday by Turkish President Cemal Gursel, Premier Ismet Inonu and Foreign Minister Cemal Erkin.

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Four U.S. Navy divers are spending three weeks in a 40-foot capsule 192 feet below the ocean surface. They are investigating man's ability to live and work underwater.

The capsule, Project Sealab 1, was moored Monday off Artemis Argus Island 26 miles southwest of Bermuda, an area infested by barracuda up to 5 feet long.

The four aquanauts are Lt. Cmdr. Robert Elliot Thompson, 36, Gales Ferry, Conn.; Gunner's Mate 1 C. Lester Anderson, 31, Uncasville, Conn.; Chief Quartermaster Robert Barth, 33, Key West, Fla., and Chief Hospital Corpsman Sanders Manning, 33, Groton, Conn.

Red Cross Needs Blood This Week

The Warren County Chapter of the American Red Cross seeks 125 pints of blood Wednesday, when the Buffalo Regional Center Bloodmobile visits Warren.

THE BLOODMOBILE will be at Chapter House, 404 Market St., from noon to 6 p.m.

This week's visit will be the first to Warren in the new fiscal year, which carries a quota of 1,872 pints for the 12 months or 57 above the quota for the year ending June 30.

EFFORTS HAVE been concentrated during the past week on recruitment of former high school students in the hope that a heavy enlistment of younger donors might bridge the usual mid-summer slump in collections. Scores have been contacted, and a heavy response is anticipated.

Struthers Day also will be observed, and a good turnout from the West Side industry is expected to help in attaining the day's quota.

THE COUNTY chapter slipped slightly in reaching last year's quota, and officials are striving for a step-up in collections, particularly in recruiting of new donors, to effect a good start in the 1964-65 blood collection campaign.

Support of donors, young and old, from throughout the county is enlisted in Wednesday's visit of the Bloodmobile to the chapter house. Hours have been set at noon to 6 p.m. to make it convenient for those who work until 4 or 5 to visit the Bloodmobile.

Inspections Set For County's School Buses

The time for annual school bus inspections is drawing near and, as always, inspection officials will be concerned that each bus is in proper, clean and safe condition.

Dates have been scheduled as follows: August 17, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., Warren City Lines garage; Aug. 18, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., Eisenhower High School; Aug. 19, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., Freeman Loomis garage, Pittsfield; Aug. 20, 9 a.m.-12 noon, Klinebaker garage, Tidioute.

Drivers are reminded that minimum standards for school buses, revised March, 1962, have been furnished school officials and are available for reference. Pennsylvania State Police will provide answers to specific questions.

Physical examination certificates will not be required at the time of school bus inspections. Operators must, however, have a current report in his possession at all times while driving a school bus with pupils.

Applications for school bus operator's licenses are available at the county school office.

Third of State Commissioners Asked Liberalized Food Rules

A move by county commissioners from more than one-third of the counties in Pennsylvania to liberalize the liquid assets portion of the surplus food criteria has landed in the laps of state officials.

ROBERT J. Freiler, director of State Surplus Food Bureau, who was in Warren recently to consult with commissioners, at that time indicated that any liberalization would probably depend upon revisions of Pennsylvania's program now under study by the Dept. of Public Welfare.

In a meeting last week between Freiler and Philip B. Hearn, Northwest area director, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, it was reaffirmed that the federal government will give consideration to amendments to the Pennsylvania plan if changes are within the state's public welfare regulations.

HOWARD P. Davis, food distribution director, Department of Agriculture, has also advised Warren County commissioners that his department is receptive to the idea of liberalizing such standards among the aging who are in economic need, although any revisions in the allowable liquid resources must still have a direct bearing on the state-established criteria for participation in the state public welfare program.

Freiler reported that there has been considerable agreement on including a hardship clause in the state surplus food program particularly if applicants have unusually heavy medical expenses or irrevocable trusts for burial expenses.

AT A SESSION here last week, commissioners from the Northwest District all express criticism of the new restrictions. Harry Busser from York County stated that he was "very much opposed to the liquid assets portion of the requirements." Alvin Kahle of Venango said that his county had taken nearly one-half of its surplus food recipients of the list, and noted that it has hurt those who have something put aside.

All counties, in opposing the restrictions and urging liberalization, have contacted their legislators to do whatever necessary to liberalize the food program criteria.

COMMISSIONERS representing the northwestern tier have also agreed to examine further the food stamp program and to request information as the costs of such a program from Freiler's office. Many, however, oppose this approach and have termed it a federal "dole program."

Some legislators have stated that to change the state public welfare criteria will mean a tax increase, but many have publicly supported to the liberalization move.

EPITOME OF FRUGALITY

GLASGOW, Mont. (AP) — Bells clanged, sirens sounded. Firemen from three trucks scurried about until the gas was shut off from a flaming dryer at a coin-operated laundry.

Through all the confusion, a frugal housewife methodically put her laundry through an ironing.

"I put my coins in the ironer before the fire started and I wanted to get my money's worth," she told Fire Chief Jim Kruzich, who asked why she stayed through all the fuss.

When the trucks returned to the station, the unidentified woman was still doing her ironing.

Military Pay Increase Headed for Fast Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $207 million yearly pay raise for more than 2.6 million military personnel was headed today for speedy enactment, perhaps in time to get into August paychecks.

The election-year bonanza whizzed through the Senate Monday by voice vote a little more than one week after it was formally approved without public hearings by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

If it gets through Congress and is signed by the President before the end of this month, the raises would become effective Aug. 1.

Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., of the House Armed Services Committee called for speedy action. He steered the bill to a subcommittee headed by Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., who said House hearings would be brief.

Asked if he could get the measure to the President before the end of the month, Rivers said "we could very well do that."

The bill's effective date is the first day of the calendar month following enactment.

Little opposition was expected in the House, which last month voted $448 million in pay raises for most civilian government employees. The Senate has passed this bill with amendments and it now is awaiting compromise.

The military payroll would provide a 2.5 per cent increase in basic pay or all officers and enlisted men with more than two years of service.

Even larger increases—5.5 per cent of basic pay—would go to young commissioned and warrant officers with less than two years of service. In this category are about 44,601 officers, mainly lieutenants and captains. The basic pay of this group has not been increased since 1952, although officers with longer service have received three raises since then.

Monthly raises for personnel with less than two years of service would range from $18.78 for a warrant officer to $22.04 for a first lieutenant.
